

---

Contents

---

Foreword .....	vii
Preface .....	xi

Part I: Introduction

1. The Problem and Its Psychologic Challenge .....	1
--	---

Part II: The Psychologic Procedures

2. The Clinical Use of Psychologic Procedures .....	5
3. Intelligence and Ideation .....	8
4. The Personality Structure—Emotional and Character- ologic Factors .....	26
5. Figures and Attitudes .....	35
6. Diagnostic Formulations .....	42

Part III: Case Studies

7. Case A: An Interesting Interplay Between Character and Symptom .....	56
8. Case B: Plumbing the Depth of a Depression .....	80
9. Case C: A Classic Paranoid; Time and Psychologic Testing Confirm a Diagnosis .....	96
10. Case D: A Woman "On the Town" .....	109
11. Case E: A Manic-Depressive Psychosis and a Schizo- phrenic Psychosis Ravage a Gifted Woman .....	130
12. Case F: Suicidal Attempts Force the Use of Shock and Spoil a Prognosis .....	159
13. Case G: Histrionics in a Hysteric .....	172
14. Case H: "Is This Man Senile, Is His Intellectual Func- tioning Impaired?" .....	193
15. Case I: Counseling the Uncounselable .....	197
16. Case J: A Child Prodigy Never Grows Up; Psychosis Is Preferable to Failure .....	206
17. Case K: Another Boy Who Never Grew Up .....	224

18.	Case L: Time Validates a Test Diagnosis .....	240
19.	Case M: Another Interplay Between Symptom and Character .....	261
20.	Case N: A Woman Who Acts Out Her Conflicts As Well As Expressing Them Symptomatically .....	275
21.	Case O: A Young Fanatic .....	295
22.	Case P: A Patient Struggles with His Homosexuality....	316
23.	Case Q: A Tale from Old Vienna .....	337

Part IV: Conclusions

24.	Evaluation and Synthesis .....	357
	Bibliography .....	362
	Index .....	363
	Appendix: Illustrations .....	369