

---

Detailed contents

Notes on contributors	xi
Preface	xix
1 The relationship of human rights to business	1
1.1 Business and human rights in context JUSTINE NOLAN	2
1.2 Making the business case for human rights: an assessment DOROTHÉE BAUMANN-PAULY AND MICHAEL POSNER	11
1.3 Bhopal: the saga continues 31 years on SURYA DEVA	22
1.4 Rana Plaza: the collapse of a factory in Bangladesh and its ramifications for the global garment industry JUSTINE NOLAN	27
2 Regulatory framework and Guiding Principles	31
2.1 Mapping the movement: the business and human rights regulatory framework JUSTINE NOLAN	32
2.2 The United Nations ‘Protect, Respect, Remedy’ Framework and Guiding Principles CHIP PITTS	51
2.3 Incorporating human rights: lessons learned, and next steps JOHN GERARD RUGGIE	64
2.4 A business and human rights treaty JUSTINE NOLAN	70
2.5 Towards a business and human rights treaty? ARVIND GANESAN	73
3 Business and human rights: implementation challenges	77
3.1 From side show to main act: can business and human rights save corporate responsibility? FLORIAN WETTSTEIN	78

3.2	Implementing human rights in global business: high performance with high integrity	88
	BEN W. HEINEMAN JR.
3.3	Human rights ‘intrapreneurs’: challenges and keys to success	98
	CHRISTINE BADER
3.4	The social licence: one way of thinking about business and human rights	101
	JOHN MORRISON
3.5	Salient human rights issues: when severe risks to people intersect with risks to business	103
	CAROLINE REES AND RACHEL DAVIS
4	Defining and implementing human rights standards industry by industry	107
4.1	Setting and enforcing industry-specific standards for human rights: the role of multi-stakeholder initiatives in regulating corporate conduct	107
	DOROTHÉE BAUMANN-PAULY, JUSTINE NOLAN, SARAH LABOWITZ AND AURET VAN HEERDEN
4.2	The Fair Labor Association: improving workers’ rights in global supply chains	128
	AURET VAN HEERDEN
4.3	The Global Network Initiative: how can companies in the information and communications technology industry respect human rights?	136
	MICHAEL SAMWAY
4.4	Extractives and multi-stakeholder initiatives: the Voluntary Principles on Security and Human Rights; the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative; the Kimberley Process Certification Scheme	147
	SCOTT JERBI
4.5	The emergence of the International Code of Conduct for Private Security Service Providers	160
	ANNE-MARIE BUZATU
4.6	Standard setting for agriculture	172
	MICHAEL POSNER
4.7	The Coalition of Immokalee Workers and the Campaign for Fair Food: the evolution of a business and human rights campaign	175
	JOANNE BAUER

5	Key constituents that drive the implementation of business and human rights	179
5.1	The role of civil society in business and human rights CHRIS JOCHNICK AND LOUIS BICKFORD	181
5.2	Workers' rights in the business and human rights movement BARBARA SHAILOR	194
5.3	Shopping for a better world: how consumer decisions can help to promote sustainability and human rights GUIDO PALAZZO, FELICITAS MORHART AND JUDITH SCHREMPF-STIRLING	200
5.4	Investors: models and strategies for engaging with human rights MARY DOWELL-JONES	209
5.5	Thinking long-term: investment strategies and responsibility MATTIE J. BEKINK	225
5.6	Investors and human rights: values, risk and materiality BENNETT FREEMAN	235
6	Accountability and remedy	239
6.1	The meaning of accountability SIMON ZADEK	240
	Introduction to Sections 6.2–6.4: litigation and access to non-judicial remedy	243
6.2	Business and human rights litigation in US courts before and after Kiobel WILLIAM S. DODGE	244
6.3	Holding multinational corporations accountable for human rights violations: litigation outside the United States CHRISTINE KAUFMANN	253
6.4	Access to remedy: non-judicial grievance mechanisms KRISTEN GENOVESE	266
6.5	The rise of non-financial disclosure: reporting on respect for human rights AMOL MEHRA AND SARA BLACKWELL	276
6.6	Mandatory human rights reporting ANTHONY P. EWING	284

7	Global rules, private actors: future challenges for business and human rights	299
7.1	We live in a world of global supply chains RICHARD M. LOCKE	299
7.2	The future of business and human rights: challenges and opportunities DOROTHÉE BAUMANN-PAULY, JUSTINE NOLAN AND MICHAEL POSNER	316
	Questions for discussion	321
	Index	325