

CONTENTS

PREFACE vii

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS xi

INTRODUCTION

Chapter 1 THE ROLE AND SCOPE OF EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY	3
Why Educational Psychology for Prospective Teachers?	4
The Role of Psychology in Education	4
The Decline of Classroom Learning Theory	9
Theories of Learning versus Theories of Teaching	11
Research Strategy in Educational Psychology	14
Types of Learning	20
Classification of Learning Variables and the Organization of the Book	26
Convergent Current Trends in Educational Thought	28

MEANING AND MEANINGFUL LEARNING

Chapter 2 MEANING AND MEANINGFUL LEARNING	37
The Nature of Meaning	37
Logical and Psychological Meaning	44
Meaningful Learning versus the Learning of Meaningful Material	45
The Acquisition of Meanings	47
Cognition versus Perception in Meaningful Verbal Learning	55

xiii

The Significance of Meaningful Learning in Acquiring Knowledge	58
Neobehavioristic Theories of Meaning	62
Acquiring Meanings: Informal Learning of Syntax	67
Acquiring Meanings: Learning to Read	68
Phonetic versus Wholistic Methods of Teaching Reading	70
Acquiring Meanings: Second-Language Learning	72
Language and Cognitive Functioning	79
Chapter 3 MEANINGFUL RECEPTION LEARNING AND RETENTION	83
The Nature of Meaningful Reception Learning	83
The Assimilation Process in the Acquisition, Retention, and Organization of Knowledge	89
The Threshold of Availability: Reminiscence	104
Sources of Forgetting	106
Meaningful versus Rote Learning	107
Alternative Theories of Retention and Forgetting	115
COGNITIVE FACTORS IN LEARNING
Chapter 4 COGNITIVE STRUCTURE AND TRANSFER	127
The Role of Cognitive Structure in Meaningful Learning and Retention	127
Cognitive Structure and Transfer	128
Principal Cognitive Structure Variables	130
Learning and the Availability of Relevant Anchoring Ideas	133
The Role of Discriminability in Meaningful Learning and Retention	142
Stability and Clarity of Anchoring Ideas	145
Pedagogic Facilitation of Transfer	147
Other Pedagogic Means of Facilitating Transfer	161
Other Theories of Transfer	162
The Role of Transfer in Education	164
The Facilitating Effect of Verbalization in Transfer	169
Cognitive Style	170
Chapter 5 COGNITIVE DEVELOPMENT AND READINESS	175
The Nature of Readiness	176
The Effects of Environmental Deprivation on Cognitive Development	183
General Stages of Intellectual Development	191
The Concrete-Abstract Dimension of Cognitive Development	198
Educational Implications of the Concrete, Intuitive Level of Cognitive Functioning	208

Educational Implications of the Transition from Concrete to Abstract Cognitive Functioning	219
Developmental Considerations Regarding Breadth of Curriculum	221
Chapter 6 INTELLECTUAL ABILITY	225
The Nature of Intelligence	225
Distribution of IQ Scores	230
Developmental Changes in Intelligence	231
Sex Differences	241
Nature and Nurture	243
Intelligence as a Predictor of Academic Achievement	255
Chapter 7 PROVIDING FOR INDIVIDUAL DIFFERENCES     IN INTELLECTUAL ABILITY	259
Advantages and Disadvantages of Grouping	260
Nonpromotion	265
The Academically Gifted: Enrichment or Acceleration	265
The Mentally Retarded	267
The Culturally Deprived	267
Chapter 8 PRACTICE	273
Frequency	275
Distribution of Practice: Effect on Learning and Retention	291
Method of Practice	295
General Conditions of Practice	309
Knowledge of Results (Feedback)	315
Chapter 9 INSTRUCTIONAL MATERIALS	320
Amount of Material: Task Size	320
Difficulty of the Material	325
Step Size	326
Pacing	327
Internal Logic of Instructional Material	328
Organization of Material	330
Effective Communication	338
Instructional Aids	342
Curriculum Reform Movements	349
AFFECTIVE AND SOCIAL FACTORS IN LEARNING
Chapter 10 MOTIVATIONAL FACTORS IN LEARNING	363
Is Motivation Necessary for Learning?	364

Cognitive Drive	367
The Mediation of Motivational Influence	368
Ego-Enhancement and Affiliative Components of Achievement Motivation	375
Reward and Punishment	379
Drive Reduction and Reinforcement	384
The Effects of Intention on Meaningful Learning and Retention	386
Values and Attitudes	388
The Effects of Attitudes on Meaningful Learning and Retention	389
Increasing Classroom Motivation	393
Chapter 11 PERSONALITY FACTORS IN LEARNING	394
Motivational Orientation to Learning	395
Anxiety and School Learning	401
Dogmatism and Authoritarianism	408
Personality Adjustment and School Achievement	409
The Personality Development and Mental Health Responsibilities of the School	411
The Teacher's Responsibility in Handling Personality Maladjustment	413
Chapter 12 GROUP AND SOCIAL FACTORS IN LEARNING	416
Classroom Climate	417
Interaction among Pupils	420
Competition and Cooperation	423
Conformity and Individuality	425
Adult versus Peer Group Norms	430
Social Sex Role and the School	434
Social Class Stratification and Education	435
Racial Factors in Education	438
Motivating the Culturally Deprived Pupil	445
Chapter 13 TEACHER CHARACTERISTICS	449
The Roles of Teachers	450
Cognitive Abilities	451
Personality Characteristics	453
Teaching Style	455
School Discipline	457

DISCOVERY LEARNING

Chapter 14 LEARNING BY DISCOVERY	467
Historical Antecedents	467
Psychological and Educational Rationale of the Discovery Method	471
Psychological and Educational Limitations of Learning by Discovery	473
Research Evidence	497
Chapter 15 THE ACQUISITION AND USE OF CONCEPTS	505
The Nature of Concepts	505
Problems in the Acquisition and Use of Concepts	509
Different Ways of Acquiring and Using Concepts	509
The Nature of Generic Meaning	513
Other Theoretical Views of Concept Acquisition	516
Sequential Stages in Concept Acquisition	517
Conceptual Terms and Cognitive Content	519
Classification of Concepts	520
Strategies in Concept Formation	520
Language and Concept Acquisition	521
Developmental Aspects of Concept Acquisition	523
Increased Abstractness and Precision	525
Factors Influencing Concept Acquisition	530
Chapter 16 PROBLEM SOLVING AND CREATIVITY	533
The Nature of Problem Solving	534
The Role of Cognitive Structure in Problem Solving	538
Language and Thought	539
Alternative Views on Problem Solving	540
Stages and Strategies of Problem Solving	541
Developmental Changes in Problem Solving	541
Factors Influencing Problem Solving	546
The Trainability of Problem-Solving Skills	549
Creativity	551

EVALUATION AND MEASUREMENT

Chapter 17 PRINCIPLES OF MEASUREMENT AND EVALUATION	565
The Purposes of Measurement and Evaluation	566
Limitations and Abuses of Evaluation and Measurement	570
Requirements of an Effective Test	573
The Standardized Objective Test	583

Interpretation of Achievement Test Scores	585
Other Methods of Evaluation and Measurement	586
REFERENCES	591
INDEX	659