

Contents

|                     |    |
|---------------------|----|
| Introduction | xi |
|---------------------|----|

Francis McNamara

|  |    |
|--|----|
| The Convict's Arrival  | 3  |
| Labouring with the Hoe   | 4  |
| A Petition from the A.A. Co. Flocks at Peels River in Behalf of theIrish Bard    | 5  |
| [For the Company Underground]  | 8  |
| A Petition from the Chain Gang at Newcastle to Captain Furlong theSuperintendent | 10 |
| A Convict's Tour to Hell   | 12 |
| A Dialogue Between Two Hibernians in Botany Bay                                      | 18 |
| [Epigram of Introduction]  | 22 |
| The Seizure of the Cyprus Brig in Recherche Bay, Aug. 1829                    | 22 |
| [Epigram on Beef]  | 25 |
| Farewell to Tasmania   | 25 |

Mary Gilmore

|                           |    |
|---------------------------|----|
| When Myall Creek Was New  | 29 |
| I Am the Idle             | 30 |
| Eva Has Gone              | 30 |
| Eternal Claim             | 32 |
| The Linen for Pillow...   | 32 |
| Judged                    | 33 |
| The Rue Tree              | 34 |
| These?                    | 34 |
| In Poverty and Toil       | 35 |
| The Truest Mate           | 36 |
| [As late as the 1870s...] | 37 |
| The Forest Prayed         | 37 |
| The Coming                | 38 |
| Outcast                   | 38 |
| All Souls                 | 39 |
| Heritage                  | 39 |
| Awakened                  | 40 |
| The Kiss                  | 40 |
| The Babe                  | 41 |
| Fourteen Men              | 41 |
| The Tenancy               | 42 |
| Of Certain Critics        | 42 |

|                                     |    |
|-------------------------------------|----|
| The Gift                            | 43 |
| Never Admit the Pain                | 43 |
| The Harvesters                      | 43 |
| The Saturday Tub                    | 44 |
| Bones in a Poet                     | 45 |
| Old Botany Bay                      | 45 |
| [The kangaroos were patriarchal...] | 46 |
| The Little Shoes that Died          | 47 |
| Eve-Song                            | 47 |
| The Road                            | 48 |
| Somehow We Missed Each Other        | 48 |
| Second-hand Beds                    | 49 |
| Famous                              | 50 |
| Nationality                         | 50 |
| In Wesleyan Days, Wagga Wagga       | 51 |
| The Road to Gunning                 | 54 |
| Verdicts                            | 54 |

John Shaw Neilson

|                                   |    |
|-----------------------------------|----|
| The Crane is My Neighbour         | 59 |
| The Gentle Water Bird             | 59 |
| The Flautist                      | 61 |
| To a Runaway Sound                | 62 |
| For the Little Boys Out of Heaven | 62 |
| The Ballad of Remembrance         | 63 |
| The Poor, Poor Country            | 65 |
| The Lad Who Started Out           | 66 |
| The Child Being There             | 67 |
| Love in Absence                   | 68 |
| The Hour of the Parting           | 68 |
| Love's Coming                     | 69 |
| To a Lodging-House Canary         | 69 |
| The Sweetening of the Year        | 70 |
| A Limerick                        | 70 |
| The Soldier is Home               | 71 |
| Stony Town                        | 72 |
| Stephen Foster                    | 72 |
| Tell Summer that I Died           | 73 |
| The Hen in the Bushes             | 73 |
| The Moon Was Seven Days Down      | 75 |
| Schoolgirls Hastening             | 77 |
| The Orange Tree                   | 78 |
| In the Dim Counties               | 79 |

|                                   |    |
|-----------------------------------|----|
| You, and Yellow Air               | 80 |
| Sheedy Was Dying                  | 81 |
| May                               | 82 |
| Song Be Delicate                  | 83 |
| The Prince Has Been into the Lane | 84 |
| The Sundowner                     | 84 |
| The Happy Thief                   | 86 |
| From a Coffin                     | 86 |
| In the Long Gown                  | 86 |
| To a Blonde Typist                | 87 |
| You Cannot Go Down to the Spring  | 89 |
| Lament for Laddie                 | 89 |
| Take Down the Fiddle, Karl!       | 90 |
| The Power of the Bells            | 91 |
| To the Red Lory                   | 92 |
| Uncle to a Pirate                 | 92 |
| The Bard and the Lizard           | 94 |
| Dolly's Offering                  | 95 |
| The Eleventh Moon                 | 96 |
| Surely God Was a Lover            | 97 |
| The Poor Can Feed the Birds       | 97 |
| The Smoker Parrot                 | 98 |

Lesbia Harford

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| [I dreamt last night]                      | 100 |
| [If I had six white horses]                | 100 |
| Little Ships                               | 100 |
| [I count the days until I see you, dear]   | 101 |
| [I can't feel the sunshine]                | 101 |
| [My mission in the world]                  | 102 |
| Day's End                                  | 102 |
| [Ours was a friendship in secret, my dear] | 103 |
| [Somebody brought in lilac]                | 103 |
| Deliverance Through Art                    | 103 |
| The Folk I Love                            | 104 |
| [Oh, oh, Rosalie]                          | 104 |
| [All day long]                             | 105 |
| Fatherless                                 | 106 |
| Lawstudent and Coach                       | 106 |
| Machinists Talking                         | 108 |
| The Invisible People                       | 109 |
| Closing Time: Public Library               | 109 |
| Machinist's Song                           | 109 |

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Periodicity                                   | 110 |
| [This evening I'm alone]                      | 110 |
| [I was sad]                                   | 111 |
| [All through the day at my machine]           | 111 |
| [Sometimes I wish that I were Helen-fair]     | 112 |
| [Sometimes I am too tired]                    | 112 |
| [My lovely pixie, my good companion]          | 112 |
| [Into old rhyme]                              | 113 |
| [The love I look for]                         | 113 |
| [He has a fairy wife]                         | 114 |
| [Those must be masts of ships the gazer sees] | 114 |
| [I have golden shoes]                         | 115 |
| [Now I've been three days]                    | 115 |
| [I found an orchid in the valley fair]        | 116 |
| [I love to see]                               | 116 |
| Skirt Machinist                               | 117 |
| [I'm like all lovers]                         | 117 |
| [I used to be afraid]                         | 118 |
| Body and Soul                                 | 119 |
| A Blouse Machinist                            | 119 |
| An Improver                                   | 120 |
| [Once I thought my love]                      | 120 |
| [Pink eucalyptus flowers]                     | 121 |
| [I came to live in Sophia Street]             | 121 |
| [Today is rebels' day]                        | 121 |
| [To look across at Moira]                     | 122 |
| Street Music                                  | 122 |
| [I dreamt last night of happy home-comings]   | 123 |
| [The happiest of love's moments]              | 123 |
| [The people have drunk the wine of peace]     | 123 |
| Girl's Love                                   | 124 |
| [I must be dreaming through the days]         | 124 |
| [When I get up to light the fire]             | 125 |
| [Today, in class]                             | 125 |
| [I bought a red hat]                          | 126 |
| Miss Mary Fairfax                             | 126 |
| [Whenever I think of you]                     | 126 |
| A Strike Rhyme                                | 127 |
| [In this little school]                       | 127 |
| Inventory                                     | 128 |
| A Parlourmaid                                 | 128 |
| Street Scene – Little Lonsdale St             | 129 |
| [I'd like to spend long hours at home]        | 130 |

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| [I had a lover who betrayed me]        | 131 |
| [A way of making friends]              | 131 |
| The Psychological Craze                | 131 |
| Lovers Parted                          | 132 |
| ‘All Knowledge...’                     | 133 |
| [How funny it would be]                | 133 |
| [Pat wasn’t Pat]                       | 134 |
| [A bunch of lilac and a storm of hail] | 134 |
| [O you, dear trees]                    | 134 |
| [Last night, in a dream]               | 135 |
| White Sunshine                         | 135 |
| Flowers and Light                      | 135 |
| Pruning Flowering Gums                 | 136 |
| Polytheist                             | 137 |
| ‘Love is not love...’                  | 138 |
| The Moonlit Room                       | 138 |
| A Meaning Learnt                       | 139 |
| The Wife                               | 139 |
| Raiment                                | 140 |
| [When I am articulated]                | 140 |
| [When my lover]                        | 141 |
| [I read a statement]                   | 142 |
| [I am no mystic. All the ways of God]  | 142 |
| A Prayer to Saint Rosa                 | 143 |
| Bibliography                    | 144 |
| Index of Titles                 | 145 |
| Index of First Lines            | 150 |