

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: Disturbing Images 3

- i The Poor in the National Imaginary 7
- ii The Power of Images 16
- iii Poverty Narratives: A New Category of Analysis 22
- iv The Gender of Poverty 31

1 'Fictioning' a Literature 39

- 1.1 Beyond Literature: Ordinary Voices 40
- 1.2 Populist Motives 48
- 1.3 Cultural Critique as Social Therapy 53
- 1.4 Testimony and Radical Knowledge 57

2 Visits and Homecomings 65

- 2.1 Susanna Moodie: Poverty and Vice 67
- 2.2 Nellie McClung: Social Gospel Rescue 72
- 2.3 Gabrielle Roy: Everyday Struggle as Resistance 77

3 'We Live in a Ricketty House': Social Boundaries and Poor Housing 86

- 3.1 A Genealogy of Poor Houses 93
- 3.2 Alice Munro's Gaze – from a Distance 104
- 3.3 Homeplace and 'Bugs' 111

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| 4 Theories and Anti-Theory: On Knowing Poor Women                   | 122 |
| 4.1 Anti-Theory, Anti-What?  | 123        |
| 4.2 Subjectivities   | 126        |
| 4.3 Theories of the Classed and Gendered Subject                           | 130        |
| 4.4 Understanding as Opposed to Mapping Subjectivities                     | 137        |
| 5 Subverting 'Poor Me': Negative Constructions of Identity          | 143 |
| 5.1 Cy-Thea Sand's Cultural Smuggling                                      | 145        |
| 5.2 Maria Campbell's Halfbreed and Alternative Status-Honour Groups | 153        |
| 5.3 The Poor as Colonized Subjects   | 160        |
| 5.4 Decolonizing Poor Subjects through Autobiography                       | 169        |
| 6 'Organized Forgetting'  | 174 |
| 6.1 On Autobiographical Memories of Poverty, Class, Gender, and Nation     | 175        |
| 6.2 Poverty as Distant Landscape: Edna Jaques                              | 183        |
| 6.3 Class Travelling with Fredelle Bruser Maynard                          | 192        |
| 7 'Remnants of Nation'  | 200 |
| 7.1 Poverty and Nation as Reciprocal Constructions                         | 201        |
| 7.2 Saving the Nation: The Diviners                                 | 205        |
| 7.3 Strategies of Containment and Exclusion                                | 226        |
| 7.4 Counter-national Testimonies   | 239        |
| 8 The Long View: Contexts of Oppositional Criticism                 | 253 |
| 8.1 Cultural Studies as a Site of Resistance                               | 254        |
| 8.2 A Toolkit of Theory  | 260        |
| 8.3 Representing the Poor within Academic Discourse                        | 267        |
| Conclusion: Taking a Position                                       | 275 |
| Appendix: Outlawing Boundaries                                      | 287 |
| i Useful Distinctions: Poor versus Working-Class Women                     | 292        |
| ii Setting Up a Cross-Class Dialectic                                      | 293        |
| iii Transgressing the National Canon                                       | 298        |
| iv Poverty Narratives by Canadian Women (1919–1990s)                       | 305        |
| Bibliography  | 309        |
| Index   | 329        |