

Contents

Acknowledgement.....	9
Chapter I: Introduction.....	11
1 Motivation	13
2 Contribution.....	15
3 Historical context East–West migration in Germany	18
3.1 Differences and similarities	18
3.2 East–West migration in Germany	19
4 The structure of this work	21
5 References.....	24
Chapter II: Overview of migration theories	29
1 Introduction.....	31
2 Selection of migration theories.....	31
2.1 Individual theories.....	33
2.1.1 Neoclassical migration theory	33
2.1.2 New economics of migration	37
2.1.3 Signaling theory.....	41
2.1.4 Segmentation theory.....	44
2.2 Migration of women.....	48
2.2.1 Migration of unattached women.....	49
2.2.1.1 Why do women migrate less often?.....	49
2.2.1.2 Why do women migrate more often?.....	50
2.2.2 Theories on family migration	52
2.2.2.1 Household economy.....	53
2.2.2.2 Bargaining theory.....	57
2.2.2.3 Gender role theory	62
3 Critique.....	64
3.1 General critique.....	64
3.2 Critique from a gender perspective	65
4 Discussion.....	66
5 References.....	68

Chapter III: Reconsidering the effect of education on East-West migration in Germany.....	79
Abstract	81
1 Introduction.....	81
2 Theory.....	84
2.1 Human capital theory.....	84
2.2 Signaling theory.....	86
2.3 Segmentation theory.....	87
2.4 Gender-specific differences.....	88
3 Data, measures, and methods.....	89
3.1 Data	89
3.2 Measures.....	90
3.3 Methods	92
3.3.1 Random effects regressions.....	92
3.3.2 Selection bias.....	93
4 Results.....	95
5 Conclusion.....	102
Acknowledgement.....	105
Funding	105
6 References.....	105
7 Appendix.....	108
Chapter IV: Does migration make you happy? The influence of migration on subjective well-being.....	111
Abstract	113
1 Introduction.....	113
2 Migration and subjective well-being.....	116
3 Theoretical considerations	118
3.1 Subjective well-being of migrants	118
3.2 Group differences.....	119
4 Data and methods	120
4.1 Data	120
4.2 Methods	123

5	Results	124
5.1	Descriptive results	124
5.2	Analytical results.....	125
6	Conclusion.....	130
	Acknowledgement.....	132
7	References	132
8	Appendix	137
	Chapter V: Reconsidering gender-specific commuting and migration between East and West Germany.....	139
	Abstract	141
1	Introduction	141
2	Previous research	144
3	Theoretical framework	145
3.1	Mobility costs.....	145
3.2	Gender-specific differences.....	147
4	Data and methods	148
4.1	Data	148
4.2	Methods	150
5	Results.....	151
5.1	Descriptive results.....	151
5.2	Determinants of commuting and migration.....	153
6	Conclusion.....	160
7	References.....	162
	Chapter VI: Why do couples relocate? Considering migration from East to West Germany.....	167
	Abstract	169
1	Introduction.....	169
2	East to West migration in Germany	170
3	Theoretical background.....	172
3.1	Household economic theory.....	172

Contents

3.2	Bargaining theory.....	172
3.3	Gender role theory	173
4	Family migration in the East German context.....	174
5	Data and variables.....	176
5.1	Data	176
5.2	Variables.....	176
6	Methods	178
7	Results	179
7.1	Descriptive results	179
7.2	Analytical results.....	180
8	Conclusions.....	184
	Acknowledgement.....	186
9	References.....	186
	Chapter VII: Explaining the puzzling effects of household migration: Why do East German women lose and West German women gain?.....	191
	Abstract	193
1	Introduction.....	193
2	Determinants and consequences of migration – literature review	196
2.1	Mobility of individuals.....	196
2.2	Mobility of households	196
2.3	Explanation for different mobility patterns of men and women in households.....	197
2.4	Gender arrangements in East and West Germany	198
3	An alternative approach: the bargaining model of migration.....	199
3.1	Migration decisions from a bargaining perspective	199
3.2	Regional determinants and couples' migration decisions in East and West Germany.....	201
4	Methods and data	202
4.1	Data	202
4.2	Methods	204

5	Results	205
5.1	Determinants of couples' migration in East and West Germany.....	205
5.2	Effects of couples' migration on income.....	209
5.3	Occupational structure before and after the move.....	211
6	Summary	213
7	References	214
Chapter VIII: Conclusion		219
1	Summary of research	221
2	Contribution to East–West migration in Germany	221
2.1	Why do East German women relocate more often to West Germany than East German men?.....	221
2.2	Why do the migration patterns of East German single women and those in partnerships differ so substantially?.....	224
3	Contribution to the field	228
4	Limitations and future research	229
5	References	230
Abstract		233
Kurzfassung		235

