Part One

Defining the Art of Recording: The Sound Characteristics and the Aesthetic Qualities of Audio Recordings

Chapter 1 The Elements of Sound and Audio Recording	3
The States of Sound	4
Physical Dimensions of Sound	6
Perceived Parameters of Sound	16
Summary	35

Chapter 2	The Aesthetic and Artistic Elements of Sound in Audio Recordings	37
	The States of Sound and the Aesthetic/Artistic Elements	38
	Pitch Levels and Relationships	39
	Dynamic Levels and Relationships	43
	Rhythmic Patterns and Rates of Activities	47
	Sound Sources and Sound Quality	48
	Spatial Properties: Stereo and Surround Sound	51
	Conclusion	59
Chapter 3	The Musical Message and the Listener	60
	The Musical Message	60
	Musical Form and Structure	63
	Musical Materials	65
	The Relationships of Artistic Elements and Musical Materials	66
	Equivalence and the Expression of Musical Ideas	68
	Text as Song Lyrics	70
	The Listener	74
	Conclusion	81
 Part Two
<hr/>
Learning to Listen, Beginning to Hear: Acquiring Fundamental Listening Skills and Establishing an Effective Approach to Listening
Chapter 4	Listening and Evaluating Sound for the Aspiring Audio Professional	85
	Why Audio Professionals Need to Evaluate Sound	86
	Talking About Sound	87
	The Listening Process	90
	Personal Development for Listening and Sound Evaluation	96
	Summary	99
Chapter 5	Fundamental Listening Skills	101
	Introduction	101
	Background Knowledge and Preparation	102
	Self-Discovery and Realization: "What is Sound to You?"	106
	Beginning to Hear the Relationships and Qualities of the Mix	111
	Hearing Subtle Qualities	114
	Conclusion	115
	Exercises	115

Chapter 6	A System for Evaluating Sound	126
	System Overview	127
	Sound-Evaluation Sequence	129
	Graphing the States and Activity of Sound Components	133
	Plotting Sources against a Timeline	139
	Summary	141
	Exercise	142
Part Three
<hr/>
Understanding the Mix: Developing Listening and Sound-Evaluation Skills
Chapter 7	Evaluating Pitch in Audio and Music Recordings	147
	Analytical Systems	149
	Melodic Contour	150
	Pitch-Area and Frequency-Band Recognition	153
	Exercises	162
Chapter 8	Evaluating Loudness in Audio and Music Recordings	165
	Reference Levels and the Hierarchy of Dynamics	167
	Program Dynamic Contour	174
	Musical Balance	176
	Performance Intensity versus Musical Balance	178
	Exercises	181
Chapter 9	Evaluating Sound Quality	186
	Sound Quality in Critical-Listening Contexts	187
	Sound Quality in Analytical-Listening Contexts	188
	Sound Quality and Perspective	189
	Evaluating the Characteristics of Sound Quality and Timbre	190
	Summary	202
	Exercises	203
Chapter 10	Evaluating the Spatial Elements of Two-Channel Sound	205
	Understanding Space as an Artistic Element	206
	Stereo-Sound Location	212
	Distance Location	215
	Environmental Characteristics	223

Space Within Space	231
Exercises	235
Chapter 11 Evaluating the Spatial Elements of Surround Sound	244
Format Considerations	245
Surround's Sound Stage and the Listener	247
Sound Location and Imaging	251
Evaluating Location in Surround Sound	253
Distance Location	258
Sound Sources and their Environments	262
Exercises	264
Chapter 12 Complete Evaluations and Understanding Observations	268
Pitch Density and Timbral Balance	269
The Overall Texture	274
Relationships of the Individual Sound Sources and the Overall Texture	277
The Complete Evaluation	283
Using Graphs for Making Evaluations and in Production Work	291
Summary	292
Exercises	294
Part Four
<hr/>
Crafting the Mix: Shaping Music and Sound, and Controlling the Recording Process
Chapter 13 The Roles of the Recordist and the Aesthetics of Recording Production	299
The Functional Roles of the Recordist	299
The Artistic Roles of the Recordist	303
The Recording and Reality: Shaping the Recording Aesthetic	304
The Recording Aesthetic in Relation to the Performance Event	307
Altered Realities of Music Performance	312
Summary	313
Chapter 14 The Sounds of Recordings: Shaping Musical Ideas and Musical Expression	317
The Artistic Elements of Sound as Musical Materials	317
Sound Qualities	321
Timbral Balance and the Mix	324

Sound Stage	326
Environments	332
Noises, Distortions, and Unwanted Sounds	336
Musical Balance	337
Chapter 15 Preproduction and Preliminary Stages: Embracing Reality and Defining the Materials of the Project	339
Sound Sources as Artistic Resources, and the Choice of Timbres	341
Microphones: The Aesthetic Decisions of Capturing Timbres	344
Equipment Selection: Application of Inherent Sound Quality	360
Monitoring: The Sound Quality of Playback	363
Summary	372
Exercises	373
Chapter 16 Recording and Tracking: Capturing and Shaping the Performance	377
Approaching the Recording: Tracking and Recording Sessions	377
In Session: Shifting Focus and Perspective	379
An Overview of Two Production Sequences	384
Editing: Rearranging and Suspending Time	389
Signal Processing: Refining Sounds and Music	394
Preparing for the Mix	397
Exercises	399
Chapter 17 Crafting the Mix, and Finalizing the Production	404
Mixing to Support the Music and the Text	405
The Mix: Composing and Performing the Recording	416
Mastering: The Final Artistic Decisions	431
The Listener's Alterations to the Recording	437
Concluding Remarks	438
Exercises	439
