

Contents

Preface	xii
Acknowledgments	xix
1 The Roman Catholic background	1
1.1 Introduction	1
1.2 Impediments to marriage	5
1.3 Annulments: Were they used as divorces?	9
1.4 Judicial separation	13
1.5 Divorce in Catholic doctrine	15
1.6 Marriage and divorce in Catholic populations	30
1.7 The Council of Trent and its Catholic critics	34
2 The Reformers and divorce: Theory and practice	40
2.1 Introduction	40
2.2 Marriage in Protestant theology	41
2.3 Divorce in Lutheran thought and practice	45
2.4 Divorce in Calvinist thought and practice	52
2.5 Divorce among other Continental Reformers	62
2.6 The “divorces” of Henry VIII	71
2.7 The Church of England and divorce	77
2.8 Conclusion: Divorce and Protestantism	84
3 Seventeenth-century England: Divorce frustrated	95
3.1 Introduction	95
3.2 Marriage breakdown in social thought	97
3.3 Attitudes toward divorce up to 1640	105
3.4 Marriage and divorce in political debate	116
3.5 Milton’s divorce doctrines	119
3.6 Popular and official attitudes to divorce after 1640	126
4 Divorce in the American world: Seventeenth and eighteenth centuries	134
4.1 Divorce in the New England colonies	134
4.2 Divorce in the middle and southern colonies	141
4.3 Marriage and divorce in early American law	144
4.4 The American challenge to English divorce policy	149
4.5 Independence and the spread of divorce	154

Contents

5	Eighteenth-century France: Enlightenment and legislation	159
5.1	Marriage and divorce in the Old Regime	159
5.2	Critics of Old Regime marriage law	163
5.3	Divorce and the French Revolution	175
5.4	Napoleonic divorce law	185
5.5	Abolition of divorce	189
6	The secularization of divorce, 1600–1800	191
6.1	Introduction	191
6.2	Secularization of institutions	194
6.3	Secularization of divorce policies	202
6.4	Secularization of ideologies and doctrines	210
7	The use of the early divorce laws: England, America, and France	227
7.1	Introduction	227
7.2	England: Divorces by Act of Parliament, 1670–1857	227
7.3	Divorces in the American colonies, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries	241
7.4	France: Divorce under revolution and empire, 1792–1816	256
7.5	Conclusion	276
8	The alternatives to divorce	279
8.1	Introduction	279
8.2	Informal separation	283
8.3	Desertion	285
8.4	Wife sale	289
8.5	Customary divorce	294
8.6	Bigamy	296
8.7	Lettres de cachet	302
8.8	Spouse murder	306
8.9	Suicide	310
8.10	Prayer	311
8.11	Conclusion	312
9	The meaning of marriage breakdown in the past	314
9.1	Introduction	314
9.2	Expectations of marriage	321
9.3	Marital violence and “moderate correction”	323
9.4	Adultery and the double standard	344
9.5	Emotional expectations and romantic love	354
10	The social context of marriage breakdown	361
10.1	Introduction	361
10.2	The family economy	364
10.3	Other pressures against separation	382
10.4	How common was marriage breakdown?	392

Contents

11	Nineteenth-century divorce laws: Liberalization and reaction, 1815–1914	403
11.1	Introduction	403
11.2	Revolutionary, Napoleonic, and Restoration Europe	405
11.3	The first English divorce law	412
11.4	Restoring divorce to France	422
11.5	Prussian and German divorce law	428
11.6	Divorce elsewhere in Europe	432
11.7	Divorce law in the British Empire	433
11.8	The United States	439
11.9	The rise of divorce and the conservative reaction	461
11.10	Migratory divorce and international law	473
12	Divorce as a social issue, 1850–1914	479
12.1	Introduction	479
12.2	The family in progressive social and political thought	481
12.3	Conservative and reactionary approaches to the family	489
12.4	The meaning of divorce policies	493
12.5	Divorce, social purity, and women's rights	495
12.6	Divorce and the eugenics movement	507
12.7	Conclusion	513
13	The twentieth century: The rise of mass divorce	516
13.1	Introduction	516
13.2	World War I and the 1920s	516
13.3	Reform in Britain, the empire, and the United States	525
13.4	Political ideology and divorce between the wars	533
13.5	World War II and the 1950s	555
13.6	The 1960s to 1980s: No-fault divorce	561
13.7	Politics and divorce reform in Italy, Portugal, Spain, and Ireland	572
14	Explaining the rise of divorce, 1870s–1980s	582
14.1	Introduction	582
14.2	Modern divorce research	584
14.3	Phase one: Up to World War I	590
14.4	Phase two: 1918 to the 1960s	612
14.5	Phase three: Divorce since 1960	619
14.6	Conclusion	630
	Conclusion	635
	Select bibliography	641
	Index	665