

Contents

Overture. German Catastrophe and the Rebirth of Musical Biography — 1

- 1 Thomas Mann: Dissonance as a Mode of Documentation — 15
 - Musicology as Narration or Mann and the Composers — 17
 - Mann Writes on “Wagner’s Reading of Beethoven” — 21
 - Mann Rewrites “Adorno’s Reading of Schoenberg” — 25
 - Word/Music: Speech Disruptions and Atonality — 33
 - Form: The Novel as “Constructive Music” — 37

Interlude I. Siegfried: Atonality and Decentralized Narrative — 43

- 2 Günter Grass: Rhythms of a Fictitious Testimony — 51
 - Allegories of Memory: Carnival and Ethics — 53
 - The Aesthetics of Dissonance — 59
 - Music as Parody: Jazz and Onion — 69

Interlude II. Clown: Ironic Tune between Memory and Oblivion — 77

- 3 Ingeborg Bachmann: The Resonance of Trauma — 83
 - Story and Score: Bachmann’s Musical Biography — 86
 - Manners of Death: Account of a Never-Ending War — 91
 - From the Motet to Atonal Melodrama — 94
 - When Music Interferes with Language — 100

Interlude III. Pianist: Austria from a Musician’s Perspective — 109

- 4 Thomas Bernhard: Writing, Playing, and the Compulsion to Repeat — 115
 - Variations on the Compulsion to Repeat — 119
 - A Composer’s Life Story, the Return of the Repressed — 125
 - Canon, Politics and Counter-Biography — 129
 - Un-Musical Mother Tongue, Jargon and Dissonance — 135
 - Cadence — 140

Interlude IV. Composer: Sound Transfiguration after Reunification — 143

Coda. The End of Musical Biography? — 149

VIII — Contents

Bibliography — 153

Index — 169