

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	Refusing the Presumptive Secularism of Cultural Studies	3
	The Ethics of Cultural Studies and, Perhaps, Faith?	8
	An Enunciative Practice of a Spiritual-Scholarly Profession	10
	A Profession of Faith on the Contested Ground of 'Spirituality'	11
2	Towards a Spiritually Engaged Cultural Studies	19
	Who or What Is Embarrassed by Matters of Faith? Governmentality, the Neoliberal Subject, and a Politics of Spirituality	20
	The Spirituality of White Collar Zen	25
	The Spirituality of Engaged Buddhism	31
	The Question of Meditative Experience	34
	Conclusion	38
		39
3	Methods, Traditions, Liminal Identities	45
	Buddhist Theology and Buddhist Critical-Constructive Reflection	48

	Autoethnographical Reflections of a Postcolonial 'Western Buddhist' Convert	52
	Portraits and Legacies of Buddhist Modernism	58
	The Insight (vipassanā) Meditation Movement	65
	The Reciprocal Development of Buddhist Critical-Constructive Reflection and Spiritually Engaged Cultural Studies	69
	Conclusion	73
4	Of Intellectual Hospitality, Buddhism and Deconstruction	79
	Constructivist Critique and the Soteriological Claim of Unmediated Awareness	81
	Dependent Co-arising and Différance	83
	Reconsidering the Buddhist Critique of Deconstruction	89
	Unconditional Unconditionality Unconditionally	95
	Conclusion	100
5	The 'Religious Question' in Foucault's Genealogies of Experience	105
	Part I: The Role of Experience in Foucault's Oeuvre	107
	Part II: The Turn to the Subject and Ethics	115
	Conclusion	131
6	The Care of Self and Spiritually Engaged Cultural Studies	137
	Problematization and the Arts of Existence	138
	Foucault's Fourfold Analysis of Ethics and the Care of Self	140
	The Double Articulation of the Self in Spiritually Engaged Cultural Studies	144
	Conclusion	148
7	A Foucauldian Analysis of Vipassana and a Buddhist Art of Living	151
	Mindfulness of Bodily Sensation (Ethical Substance/the Material Fold)	153
	The Decision to 'Let Go' (Mode of Subjection/the Fold of Relations Between Forces)	157
	Dissolving the Habits of the Self (Ethical Work/ the Fold of Truth)	160

Limit-Experience and the Body as Event (Telos/the Fold of the Outside)	166
Conclusion	172
8 Buddhist Critical Thought and an Affective Micropolitics of (Un)Becoming	179
An Emergent Buddhist Critical/Social Theory	180
Affect and Biopower	186
The Intersensory Dynamics of Perception	193
The Anticipatory Triggers of Perception	195
The Influence of Discipline on Perceptual Processes	197
The Ethico-Political Fecundity of Dwelling in Moments of Duration	201
Conclusion	203
9 A Profession of Faith	209
Is Buddhist Faith Blind?	210
The Undecidability of Faith and Faith in Undecidability	221
Debating the Im-possible: Radical Atheism Against God	223
Between an Immanent and Transcendent Horizon of Faith	229
Awaiting the 'Perhaps' with Derrida and Foucault	236
The Faith of Cultural Studies, Perhaps?	238
Conclusion	241
10 Conclusion	247
Yours Faithfully	247
The Micropolitics of the Neoliberal University	248
A Profession of Faith for the University Without Condition	253
Scholarly Affect and the Work of Friendship	257
Bibliography	263
Index	265