

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
Contributors	xi

1
Introduction: Adjusting to a World in Motion	1
Douglas J. Besharov and Mark H. Lopez

PART I. A WORLD IN MOTION

2
Global Desires to Migrate	21
Neli Esipova, Rajesh Srinivasan, and Julie Ray

3
Patterns of Global Migration	58
Ellen L. Berg and Douglas J. Besharov

PART II. THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE

4
Immigrants in the United States: Many, Diverse, and Growing	81
Eileen Patten

5

Declining Mexican Migration to the United States 112

Andrew Selee

6

Educating the Children of Immigrants in the United States 119

Dylan Conger and Rebecca Hinze-Pifer

7

Searching for New Policy Frameworks in the Wake of the Great Recession 135

Roberto Suro

PART III. EUROPE

8

The Evolution of EU Migration Policies: Toward a Balanced, Comprehensive, and Common Approach? 159

Anja Wiesbrock

9

EU Migration Policies and External Relations 188

Katharina Eisele

10

Citizenship Policies in the European Union 209

Maarten Peter Vink and Gerard-René de Groot

11

Highly Skilled Migration to the European Union and the United States 232

Metka Hercog and Anja Wiesbrock

12

Educational Performance of the Children of Immigrants in Sixteen OECD Countries 264

Jaap Dronkers and Manon de Heus

PART IV. THE MIDDLE EAST AND ASIA

13

Middle East Country Migration Policies 291*Binod Khadria*

14

Population Imbalance and Immigration as a Public Policy Problem in the United Arab Emirates 308Ahmed Mustafa Elhussein Mansour*

15

Indian Migration and “Temporary” Labor Programs in the United States, the United Kingdom, and the Netherlands 329Mary E. BreedingPART V. DIASPORA ENGAGEMENT STRATEGIES

16

Diaspora Engagement Policies and the Power of the Strong State: India and Ethiopia 353Katie Kuschminder and Metka Hercog*

17

Diaspora Engagement Policies after Conflict: Burundi and Rwanda 373*Sonja Fransen and Melissa Siegel*

18

Diaspora Engagement Policies of Countries with Similar Emigration Histories: Morocco and Turkey 390Özge Bilgili and Silja WeyelIndex 413