

Contents

	PAGE
Preface . . . . .	v
List of Abbreviations . . . . .	xii

BOOK I. THE MIDDLE AGES

PART I. THE OLD ENGLISH PERIOD (TO 1100)

CHAPTER

I. Folk, State, and Speech . . . . .	3
II. Anglo-Latin Writings . . . . .	12
III. The Old Tradition: Poetic Form . . . . .	20
IV. The Old Tradition: Popular Poetry . . . . .	32
V. The Old Tradition: Courtly Poetry . . . . .	45
VI. Religious Poetry: Cædmon and His School . . . . .	60
VII. Religious Poetry: Cynewulf and His School . . . . .	70
VIII. Religious Poetry: Poems on Various Themes . . . . .	78
IX. Secular Poetry . . . . .	88
X. Literary Prose . . . . .	96

PART II. THE MIDDLE ENGLISH PERIOD (1100-1500)

I. General Characteristics of the Period . . . . .	109
II. The Survival of the Native Tradition (1100-1250) . . . . .	117
III. The Ancrene Riwe . . . . .	127
IV. Anglo-Norman Literature . . . . .	135
V. Early Latin Writers . . . . .	143
VI. Wit and Wisdom . . . . .	152
VII. For Their Soul's Need . . . . .	158
VIII. The Arthurian Legend to Layamon . . . . .	165
IX. The Romance: I . . . . .	173
X. The Romance: II . . . . .	185
XI. The Omnibus of Religion . . . . .	200
XII. The Lyric . . . . .	208
XIII. Richard Rolle and Other Mystics . . . . .	225
XIV. The Alliterative Revival . . . . .	232
XV. Piers Plowman and Other Alliterative Poems . . . . .	240
XVI. Chaucer: I . . . . .	249
XVII. Chaucer: II . . . . .	258
XVIII. Other Contemporaries of Chaucer . . . . .	264

CONTENTS

CHAPTER	PAGE
XIX. The Beginnings of the Drama . . . . .	273
XX. Ebb Tide . . . . .	288
XXI. Looking Forward . . . . .	300

BOOK II. THE RENAISSANCE

PART I. THE EARLY TUDORS (1485-1558)

I. Links with the Past . . . . .	315
II. The New Learning . . . . .	326
III. The New World . . . . .	336
IV. Satire . . . . .	346
V. The Interlude . . . . .	358
VI. Religious Prose . . . . .	367

PART II. THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH (1558-1603)

I. The Elizabethan Lyric . . . . .	383
II. Verse Narrative . . . . .	398
III. Prose Narrative: I. Lyly and His Predecessors . . . . .	412
IV. Prose Narrative: II. Greene and His Followers . . . . .	421
V. Miscellaneous Prose . . . . .	434
VI. Elizabethan Comedy . . . . .	446
VII. Elizabethan Tragedy . . . . .	460
VIII. Sidney and the Sonneteers . . . . .	472
IX. Edmund Spenser . . . . .	483
X. The Faerie Queene: The Spenserians . . . . .	496
XI. Christopher Marlowe . . . . .	508
XII. Shakespeare to 1603 . . . . .	519

PART III. THE EARLY STUARTS AND THE COMMONWEALTH (1603-1660)

I. Shakespeare under James . . . . .	533
II. Jacobean Drama: I. Dramatists of the Old School . . . . .	541
III. Jacobean Drama: II. The Satiric Group . . . . .	552
IV. Jacobean Drama: III. The Romantic Playwrights . . . . .	571
V. Caroline Drama, 1625-1642 . . . . .	578
VI. Seventeenth-Century Prose: I. Bacon and the Prose of Utility . . . . .	590
VII. Seventeenth-Century Prose: II. Character Books. Auto- biography. Walton . . . . .	602
VIII. Seventeenth-Century Prose: III. The Baroque Glory . . . . .	613
IX. Seventeenth-Century Poetry: I. The Olympians . . . . .	624

CONTENTS

CHAPTER	PAGE
X. Seventeenth-Century Poetry: II. The Moral Tradition . . .	637
XI. Seventeenth-Century Poetry: III. The Academic and Courtly Tradition . . . . .	651
XII. Seventeenth-Century Poetry: IV. Links with the Restora- tion . . . . .	665
XIII. Milton, "The Last Elizabethan" . . . . .	673
XIV. Milton's Latin Poems and Prose Works . . . . .	681
XV. Milton in the Restoration . . . . .	689

BOOK III. THE RESTORATION AND EIGHTEENTH CENTURY (1660-1789)

PART I. THE RISE OF CLASSICISM

I. The Spirit of the Restoration . . . . .	699
II. Literary Criticism of the Restoration . . . . .	710
III. The Poetry of Dryden . . . . .	722
IV. Minor Poets of the Restoration . . . . .	733
V. Restoration Drama: I. Heroic Plays and Tragedies . . .	748
VI. Restoration Drama: II. Comedy . . . . .	762
VII. Patterns in Historical Writing . . . . .	780
VIII. Types of Prose Fiction . . . . .	793
IX. The Essay and Allied Forms . . . . .	806

PART II. CLASSICISM AND JOURNALISM

I. Eighteenth-Century Quality . . . . .	823
II. The Critical Temper and Doctrine, 1700-1750 . . . . .	833
III. Defoe and Journalism . . . . .	847
IV. Jonathan Swift . . . . .	857
V. Addison, Steele, and the Periodical Essay . . . . .	870
VI. The Drama, 1700-1740 . . . . .	883
VII. Traditions in Early Eighteenth-Century Poetry . . . .	898
VIII. Pope and His Group . . . . .	915
IX. New Voices in Poetry . . . . .	933
X. The Mid-Century Novel . . . . .	950

PART III. THE DISINTEGRATION OF CLASSICISM

I. Accentuated Tendencies . . . . .	967
II. Opinions of Critics . . . . .	977
III. Dr. Johnson . . . . .	989
IV. Mid-Century Poets . . . . .	1005

CONTENTS

CHAPTER	PAGE
V. The Novel After 1760 . . . . .	1021
VI. The Drama, 1740-1785 . . . . .	1035
VII. The Periodicals and Oliver Goldsmith . . . . .	1050
VIII. Biography and Letter-Writing . . . . .	1063
IX. Intellectual Prose . . . . .	1081
X. Cowper and Burns . . . . .	1095

BOOK IV. THE NINETEENTH CENTURY AND AFTER (1789-1939)

I. The Background of Revolution, Repression, and Reform, 1789-1832 . . . . .	1111
II. Romanticism . . . . .	1122
III. William Blake . . . . .	1128
IV. William Wordsworth . . . . .	1136
V. Samuel Taylor Coleridge . . . . .	1149
VI. Robert Southey, Walter Savage Landor, and Other Poets . . . . .	1159
VII. Reviews and Magazines: 1802-1830; The Essayists . . . . .	1176
VIII. Gothic Romance and the Novel of Doctrine . . . . .	1192
IX. Jane Austen . . . . .	1200
X. Sir Walter Scott . . . . .	1207
XI. Lord Byron . . . . .	1219
XII. Percy Bysshe Shelley . . . . .	1230
XIII. John Keats . . . . .	1241
XIV. Thomas Hood, Thomas Lovell Beddoes, and Other Poets . . . . .	1252
XV. The Drama in Decline . . . . .	1264
XVI. The Novel Between Scott and Dickens . . . . .	1270
XVII. The Background: 1832-1868. The Progress of Reform . . . . .	1279
XVIII. The Religious Revival and Its Expression in Literature . . . . .	1287
XIX. The Theory of Evolution and Its Repercussions . . . . .	1299
XX. Thomas Carlyle . . . . .	1309
XXI. Philosophy, History, and Miscellaneous Prose . . . . .	1322
XXII. John Ruskin . . . . .	1336
XXIII. Charles Dickens, Wilkie Collins, and Charles Reade . . . . .	1344
XXIV. Thackeray and Trollope . . . . .	1355
XXV. Other Novelists of the Mid-Century . . . . .	1364
XXVI. Alfred Tennyson . . . . .	1382
XXVII. The Brownings . . . . .	1392
XXVIII. Matthew Arnold and Arthur Hugh Clough; Edward Fitz- Gerald and James Thomson ("B.V.") . . . . .	1405

CONTENTS

CHAPTER	PAGE
XXIX. Rossetti and His Circle . . . . .	1421
XXX. William Morris . . . . .	1430
XXXI. Algernon Charles Swinburne . . . . .	1439
XXXII. The Background: The Victorian Decline (1868-1901) and the Aftermath (1901-1939) . . . . .	1448
XXXIII. George Meredith . . . . .	1455
XXXIV. Thomas Hardy . . . . .	1464
XXXV. Aestheticism and "Decadence" . . . . .	1475
XXXVI. The Novel: Naturalism and Romance . . . . .	1485
XXXVII. The Irish Literary Renaissance . . . . .	1507
XXXVIII. Modern Drama . . . . .	1516
XXXIX. Other Late-Victorian Poets . . . . .	1532
XL. The Modern Novel . . . . .	1547
XLI. Poetry in the Twentieth Century . . . . .	1572
XLII. Anthropology; Travel; History; Criticism . . . . .	1589
Index . . . . .	1607