
Contents

Series Foreword ix

Preface xi

1 Introduction 1

1.1 The World as Seen from Latin America in 1960 2

1.2 The Focus on Growth 5

1.3 Outline of the Book 6

Appendix 1A: Regional Education, Income, and Growth Statistics 7

2 A Structure for Understanding Growth 9

2.1 A Conceptual Framework for Knowledge and Growth 10

2.2 A Canonical Growth Model with School Attainment 12

2.3 An Extended View of the Measurement of Human Capital 15

2.4 Measuring Knowledge 16

2.5 Conclusions on Human Capital and Growth 27

Appendix 2A: Methodology of Data Construction 29

Appendix 2B: Country-Level School Quality and Mincer Returns 37

3 Knowledge Capital and Growth: The Main Results 39

3.1 Stylized Facts about Knowledge Capital and Growth 41

3.2 Institutions, Knowledge Capital, and Growth 54

3.3 Rocket Scientists or Basic Education for All? 59

3.4 Conclusions on the Empirical Relevance of Knowledge Capital 64

Appendix 3A: Alternative Data and Expansion of Growth Period 66

Appendix 3B: Relevance of Sample Selectivity	68
Appendix 3C: IQ Models	76
Appendix 3D: Basic Descriptive Statistics	78
4 Causation	79
4.1 Variations in Cognitive Skills Driven by School Institutions	81
4.2 Skill Improvement and Improved Growth	88
4.3 Micro Evidence from US Immigrants	94
4.4 Accounting for Levels of Development across Countries	101
4.5 Conclusions on Causality	106
Appendix 4A: Descriptive Statistics for Causation Analyses	107
5 Developing Countries	109
5.1 Where Does the Developing World Stand?	110
5.2 The Latin American Growth Puzzle Resolved	116
5.3 The East Asian Miracle Demystified	128
5.4 Conclusions on the Developing Country Challenge	137
Appendix 5A: Descriptive Statistics for Latin America	139
6 Developed Countries	143
6.1 Basic Growth Models for OECD Countries	145
6.2 Regulatory Environments and Growth among Rich Countries	149
6.3 Different Levels of Skills and Education	152
6.4 Conclusions on Growth among Rich Countries	156
7 The Economic Value of Educational Reform	157
7.1 Projecting the Economic Benefits of Reform	158
7.2 Baseline Reform Projections	161
7.3 An Alternative Neoclassical Growth Framework	168
7.4 Sensitivity to Alternative Parameter Choices	172
7.5 Conclusions on the Benefits and Costs of Educational Reform	173
Appendix 7A: Technical Details of Reform Projections	176
Appendix 7B: Sensitivity of Economic Projections	177

8 Policies to Improve Knowledge Capital	185
8.1 Resource and Input Policies	187
8.2 Generalizing from Existing Evidence	190
8.3 Teacher Quality	193
8.4 Focusing Institutions and Incentives on Knowledge Outcomes	194
8.5 Equity in Knowledge Acquisition	198
8.6 Conclusions on Improving Knowledge Capital	202
Notes	205
References	231
Index	255