

Contents

List of tables	vii
Introduction: the counter-revolution of neoliberalism	1
This book's contents	16
1 Foucault and beyond	28
1.1 Foucault's distinction between liberalism and neoliberalism	28
1.2 The neo-Marxist conception of neoliberalism	42
1.3 The relationship between state action and economy	52
1.4 Neoliberalism and the question of systemic complexity	59
2 The building of economics as a science	77
2.1 The revolution of marginalism: how political economy became economics	78
2.2 General economic equilibrium and econometrics in the 1930s: from Vienna to Chicago	86
2.3 The Americanization of the discipline: building mainstream economics	90
2.4 The rise of neoliberalism in Chicago: the hegemonic role of both neoliberalism and neoclassical economics	94
3 The building of individuals as rational agents	113
3.1 Economic rationality and homo oeconomicus: from Vienna and Lausanne to Chicago	114
3.2 The theoretical and methodological distance between Vienna and Chicago	119
3.3 Karl Polanyi's critique of neoliberalism	126

4	Turning the world into a firm	146
4.1	Neoliberalism and the political role of the firm	146
4.2	The neoliberal theory of organizations	162
4.3	Institutions, evolution and the frame of individual choices: or, farewell from the neoclassic nuts and bolts	172
	Postscript: a new ethics for a new liberalism?	193
	Index	201