

CONTENTS

Two passages from the MS. of Bleak House      Frontispiece

PREFACE      vii

I. DICKENS AS A CONSCIOUS AND RHETORICAL ARTIST: SOME PRELIMINARY DIFFICULTIES

1. An Initial Obstacle      1
2. Rhetoric: A Definition      6
3. Dickens as a Conscious Artist      9
4. Dickens's Concept of Narrative Art      14
5. Intention and Effect in Dickens's Narrative Art: A
Further Problem      28

II. DICKENS'S USE OF LANGUAGE AS A NARRATIVE MEDIUM

1. Surface Wit and Structural Rhetoric      41
2. A Comprehensive Survey      49

III. THE SIMPLE EFFECT

1. Dickens and Poe: Unity of Effect      70
2. Dickens and Edward Mangin: Intensity of Effect and Narrative Power      74
3. Immediacy and the Appeal to the Senses: Dickens's
Debt to the Tale of Terror in Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine      77
4. Power and Feeling      87
5. The Relationship between Simple and Complicated
Effects      99

IV. SYMPATHY AND IRONY

1. Dickens and Bulwer-Lytton      110
2. The Rhetoric of Sympathy      119
3. The Rhetoric of Irony      140

CONTENTS

V. THE COMPLEX EFFECT
1. The Rhetoric of Sympathy and Irony	166
2. The Transmutation of Fact	177
3. Balance and Control: Cynicism and Sentimentality	195
4. Power and Complexity	197
VI. STRUCTURE
1. Genesis and Structure	211
2. The Influence of Drama; Multiple Catastrophe	225
3. Structure and the Moral Vision	235
VII. CHARACTERIZATION
1. Character as Rhetoric	250
2. Simple Rhetoric in Characterization	250
3. Complex Rhetoric in Characterization	260
VIII. MODES OF VISION
1. Fragmentation of Vision	277
2. Sentimentality and Genuine Pathos	277
3. Melodrama, Sensation, and Suspense	289
4. Tragedy	301
5. Comedy	311
IX. THE NATURE OF VISION
1. Complexity and Unity	325
2. Introversion	339
APPENDIX	358
BIBLIOGRAPHY	359
INDEX	363