

READING EPIC

An introduction to the ancient narratives

Peter Toohey

London and New York

CONTENTS

Introduction	xi
1 EPIC: THE GENRE, ITS CHARACTERISTICS	1
What is epic?	1
Where did epic come from?	6
A few epic themes	7
What was an epic hero?	9
The style of oral epic: Milman Parry	11
The style of oral epic: inaccuracy and improvisation	13
The style of oral epic: parataxis	13
The style of written epic	16
Why read epic?	18
2 HOMER, ILIAD	20
The world of the Iliad and the Odyssey	20
The heroic code	22
The gods	22
Iliad 1–4: reenacting the causes of the war	23
Iliad 5–7: Diomedes' aristeia; Hector, Andromache, and Ajax	28
Iliad 8–9: Greek setbacks and the appeal to Achilles	29
Iliad 10: Dolon	30
Iliad 11–15: Achilles' prayer causes the Greeks to face defeat	31
Iliad 16–17: the death of Patroclus	35
Iliad 18–22: Achilles turns the tide and kills Hector	37
Iliad 23–4: Patroclus' funeral and the reconciliation of Achilles	41
3 HOMER, ODYSSEY	44
From the Iliad to the Odyssey	44
Odyssey 1–4: Telemachus' wanderings	46
Odyssey 5–8: Odysseus in Phaeacia	49

CONTENTS

Odyssey 9–12: Odysseus' wanderings	52
Odyssey 13–16: Odysseus and Telemachus on Ithaca	57
Odyssey 17–20: Penelope's test	59
Odyssey 21–4: Revenge and reconciliation	63
4 APOLLONIUS OF RHODES, ARGONAUTICA	68
Alexandria and Apollonius	68
Beginning the voyage: Iolcus, Lemnos, Cyzicus, Heracles, and Hylas (book 1)	69
Fantasizing about the Dark Ages: the Argonautic legend and Alexandrian Apollonius	75
Sailing in the Dark Ages from the Bebrycians to Colchis (book 2)	77
Callimachean poetics and the epic from Homer to Apollonius	80
Callimachean epic: Medea and Jason in love; Jason regains the fleece (book 3)	81
Escape from Colchis (book 4)	85
5 BEGINNING EPIC IN ROME	90
War and Roman epic	90
Livius Andronicus' translation of the Odyssey	91
The first Punic war and Naevius	92
The second Punic war and Ennius	95
6 THE ALEXANDRIAN MINIATURE EPIC	100
The life and times of a minor genre	100
Birth pains: Callimachus, Hecale	101
Compromise: Theocritus, Idylls 13, 22, 24, 25	103
The real thing: Moschus, Europa	105
Maturity: the Alexandrian epic at Rome	107
How many meanings can an epyllion have? Catullus, poem 64	108
Resisting interpretation: Virgil, Eclogues 6	111
Virgil, Georgics 4: the 'Aristaeus epyllion'	113
The death knell: Ovid's miniature epics	115
Rigor mortis: the Ciris	116
Obsequies: the Culex	118
7 VIRGIL, AENEID	121
Love, war, and the afterlife of the Aeneid	121
Virgil's life and its historical context	123
Mythological and generic constraints	124
Aeneas and the demands of empire (books 1, 6, 8, 12)	126

CONTENTS

Heroism versus destiny: Homer, Aeneas (books 2, 10, 12), Turnus (books 9, 10), empire, and the heroic impulse	129
Dido and the demands of empire (books 1, 4)	134
Virgil's private voice	137
Irreverent humour and imperial constraints	139
Did Virgil fail?	142
8 OVID, METAMORPHOSES	144
Why did he die in a frontier town?	144
Are the Metamorphoses an epic?	146
Shaping the ideas of the Metamorphoses	148
Creation, Pythagoreanism, and Augustus (books 1 and 15): purpose or pedigree?	150
Getting ready for the end: apotheosis in books 9 and 14; song in 6 and 11	152
Love and metamorphosis	154
Ovid's other interests	156
Cruel humour and affective insight	158
Alexandrian packaging	160
Back in Tomis	163
9 LUCAN, THE CIVIL WAR	166
Freedom, degeneration, and the straitjacket of ideas	166
Performing the Civil War	167
The court poet (books 1–3)	168
A compromised life	173
The Civil War and epic	174
The banned books (Civil War 4–10)	175
Indeterminacy, bad faith, and Lucan's reputation	183
10 ROMAN EPIC AND THE EMPEROR DOMITIAN	186
Epic and tyranny	186
A professional writer: Statius	188
Civil war and the corruptions of power: the Thebaid	189
Who was Valerius Flaccus?	196
Roman Argonauts in pursuit of an elusive empire: the Argonautica	198
Going through the motions: Silius Italicus	203
Moral lessons from ancient history: the Punic wars	205
11 ENDS AND BEGINNINGS: LATE ANCIENT EPIC	211
Late epic	211
Poetic autonomy? The revival of the miniature epic	212

CONTENTS

Putting God before art: miniature epic and religion	215
The historically circumstantiated epic: poems about real life	217
Trying to be universal: the compendious epic	220
APPENDIX: THE EPIC AND THE NOVEL	224
Bibliography	230
Index	242