Table of Contents

| Note on the Text | vii |
|--|-----|
| Introduction | 1 |
| | |
| PART I: THE NEW IN THE ARCHIVE | |
| 1. The New between Past and Future | 21 |
| 2. The New Is Not Just the Other | 29 |
| 3. The New Has Its Origins Neither | |
| in the Market nor in Authenticity | 34 |
| 4. The New Is Not Utopian | 41 |
| 5. The New as Valuable Other | 45 |
| 6. The New and Fashion | 49 |
| 7. The New Is Not an Effect of Original Difference | 53 |
| 8. The New Is Not a Product of Human Freedom | 57 |
| PART II: STRATEGIES OF INNOVATION | |
| 9. The Value Boundary between the | |
| Cultural Archive and the Profane Realm | 63 |
| 10. Innovation as a Revaluation of Values | 72 |
| 11. Innovation and Creativity | 76 |
| 12. Marcel Duchamp's 'Ready-Mades' | 85 |
| 13. Negative Adaptation | 100 |

CONTENTS

| 14. The Ecological Counter-Argument | 110 |
|--|----------------|
| 15. Valorization and Devalorization | 130 |
| PART III: INNOVATIVE EXCHANGE | |
| 16. The Cultural Economy of Exchange | 139 |
| 17. Innovative Exchange and Christianity | 144 |
| 18. Interpretations of Innovative Exchange | ge 149 |
| 19. Cultural Value Boundaries and Social | Inequality 163 |
| 20. Thought as Innovative Exchange | 172 |
| 21. The Author | 182 |
| Index | 193 |