

CONTENTS

Preface xiii

Acknowledgments xv

PART I Passive Investing

1. The Current Landscape 3
  - 1.1. Introduction 3
  - 1.2. Active and Passive Investing 4
    - 1.2.1. Rise of Indexing 4
    - 1.2.2. Investment Strategies 4
  - 1.3. Evolution of Investment Ideas 6
    - 1.3.1. Benchmarks 6
    - 1.3.2. Determinants of Active Performance 9
    - 1.3.3. Purity Hypothesis 10
  - 1.4. Investment Vehicles 12
    - 1.4.1. Exchange-Traded Funds and Other Fund Structures 12
    - 1.4.2. Advantages of the ETF Structure 12
    - 1.4.3. Asset Classes and Diversity of Exposures 13
    - 1.4.4. Criticisms of Passive Indexing and ETFs 15
  - 1.5. Chapter Summary 17

2. Structure and Mechanics 19
  - 2.1. Introduction 19
  - 2.2. ETF Structure 19
    - 2.2.1. Authorized Participants 19
    - 2.2.2. Creation/Redemption Mechanism 20
    - 2.2.3. Arbitrage: Value and Price 22
    - 2.2.4. In-Kind Transactions and Tax Efficiency 23
  - 2.3. Nomenclature 25
  - 2.4. Governance, Management Structure, and Legal Aspects 27
    - 2.4.1. Fundamentals of Regulation 27
    - 2.4.2. Exemptive Relief 28
  - 2.5. Industrial Organization 30
  - 2.6. Chapter Summary 31

PART II Valuation, Pricing, and Trading

- 3. Price Dynamics and Arbitrage 35
  - 3.1. Introduction 35
  - 3.2. Conceptual Framework 35
    - 3.2.1. Definitions 35
    - 3.2.2. Pricing and Liquidity 36
    - 3.2.3. Speed of Arbitrage 38
    - 3.2.4. Premiums and Discounts 39
    - 3.2.5. Special Cases of the Model 39
    - 3.2.6. Practical Illustration 40
  - 3.3. Theoretical Results 42
    - 3.3.1. Decomposition of Premiums 42
    - 3.3.2. Economic Significance 43
    - 3.3.3. Volatility 43
    - 3.3.4. Autocorrelation 45
  - 3.4. Chapter Summary 45
- 4. Valuation 47
  - 4.1. Introduction 47
  - 4.2. Individual Security Based Valuation 47
    - 4.2.1. Fundamental Value 47
    - 4.2.2. Valuing Bond ETFs 48
    - 4.2.3. Valuation of International Funds 49
  - 4.3. Statistical Estimation 51
    - 4.3.1. Top Down Approaches 51
    - 4.3.2. State-Space Representation 52
  - 4.4. Estimation 53
  - 4.5. Analysis of Premiums, Arbitrage, and Price Efficiency 55
    - 4.5.1. True Premiums 55
    - 4.5.2. True versus Reported Premiums 56
    - 4.5.3. Price Discovery 57
    - 4.5.4. ETFs in the Financial Crisis 58
  - 4.6. Chapter Summary 58
- 5. Performance and Benchmark Tracking 61
  - 5.1. Introduction 61
  - 5.2. Common Misunderstandings 62
    - 5.2.1. Tracking Error versus Tracking Difference 62
    - 5.2.2. NAV versus Index Returns 63
  - 5.3. Optimal Design 64
  - 5.4. Total Cost of Ownership 65
  - 5.5. Chapter Summary 67
- 6. Liquidity and Transaction Costs 68
  - 6.1. Introduction 68
  - 6.2. Primary and Secondary Markets 68

- 6.2.1. Defining Liquidity 68
- 6.2.2. Relative Size 69
- 6.3. Why Trading Costs Are Lower for ETFs than their Underlying Securities 71
  - 6.3.1. Role of Market Transparency 73
  - 6.3.2. Modeling Costs 73
- 6.4. Chapter Summary 76

PART III Applications

- 7. Uses of ETFs 79
  - 7.1. Introduction 79
  - 7.2. Core and Factor Exposures 79
    - 7.2.1. Individual Investors 79
    - 7.2.2. Factor Exposures 80
  - 7.3. Institutional Uses 81
  - 7.4. Futures, Swaps, and ETFs 82
  - 7.5. Chapter Summary 87
- 8. Fixed Income 88
  - 8.1. A Growth Story 88
  - 8.2. Fixed Income Basics 89
    - 8.2.1. Does Market Capitalization Weighting Make Sense? 89
    - 8.2.2. Active Choices in Index Construction 90
    - 8.2.3. Defining Exposures 91
  - 8.3. Users of Fixed Income Passive Products 92
    - 8.3.1. Bond Buyers 92
    - 8.3.2. Institutional Uses 93
    - 8.3.3. Barriers to Adoption 93
  - 8.4. Role of Analytics 94
  - 8.5. Fixed Income Market Structure and Future Opportunities 96
    - 8.5.1. Over-the-Counter Markets 96
    - 8.5.2. Bond Market Liquidity and Transaction Costs 97
    - 8.5.3. Electronic versus Voice Trading 98
  - 8.6. Fixed Income Markets in Stress 100
    - 8.6.1. Liquidity Illusion 100
    - 8.6.2. Case Study: The “Taper Tantrum” of 2013 101
  - 8.7. Chapter Summary 104
- 9. Commodities 106
  - 9.1. Introduction 106
  - 9.2. How Commodity ETFs Work 106
    - 9.2.1. Types of Commodity Funds 106
    - 9.2.2. Example—Natural Gas 107
    - 9.2.3. Futures Based ETFs 108
  - 9.3. Commodity Indexes 109
  - 9.4. Chapter Summary 111

- 10. Foreign Currency 113
  - 10.1. Beyond Stocks and Bonds 113
  - 10.2. Why Should Investors Care about Foreign Exchange? 113
    - 10.2.1. Foreign Exchange Denominates Asset Classes 113
    - 10.2.2. Why Foreign Exchange Matters 114
  - 10.3. How to Invest in Foreign Exchange Using Currency ETFs 115
    - 10.3.1. Types of Currency Funds 115
    - 10.3.2. Hedging Currency Risk 116
  - 10.4. Conceptual Framework 118
    - 10.4.1. Impact of Currency Returns on Portfolio Returns 118
    - 10.4.2. Optimal Hedge Ratio 120
  - 10.5. Empirical Evidence 121
    - 10.5.1. Returns 121
    - 10.5.2. Currency Returns and Volatility 122
    - 10.5.3. Comparison of Returns 122
  - 10.6. Chapter Summary 124
- 11. Investing in Volatility 125
  - 11.1. Is Volatility an Asset Class? 125
  - 11.2. Shaping the Distribution of Returns with Volatility Products 125
    - 11.2.1. VIX Index and Volatility Futures 125
    - 11.2.2. Futures on Volatility and Correlation Indexes 126
    - 11.2.3. Options on ETFs 127
    - 11.2.4. Historical Volatility 127
    - 11.2.5. Example: ETFs on VIX 128
  - 11.3. Returns of Volatility Funds 129
    - 11.3.1. Term Structure of Volatility 129
    - 11.3.2. Roll Yield 130
    - 11.3.3. Speculating on Volatility 133
  - 11.4. Chapter Summary 133
- 12. Alternatives and Multi-Asset Strategies 135
  - 12.1. Introduction 135
  - 12.2. What Are Alternatives? 136
    - 12.2.1. Alternative Assets, Alternative Strategies 136
    - 12.2.2. Hedge Funds versus Open-Ended Funds 136
  - 12.3. Investment Issues 137
    - 12.3.1. Optimal Capital Allocation 137
    - 12.3.2. Impact on Portfolio Construction 139
    - 12.3.3. Practical Applications: Liquid Real Estate Indexes 140
  - 12.4. Combining Alternatives: Fundamental Law of Active Management 142
  - 12.5. Chapter Summary 143

PART IV Active Strategies

- 13. Active Strategies 147
  - 13.1. Introduction 147
  - 13.2. Alternative Weighting Schemes and Fundamental Indexes 148
    - 13.2.1. Equal-Weighting and Price-Weighting 148
    - 13.2.2. Fundamental Indexes 149
    - 13.2.3. Diversification Strategies 150
    - 13.2.4. Optimized Funds 150
    - 13.2.5. Model-Based Transparent Active Funds 151
    - 13.2.6. Minimum Volatility Strategies 152
    - 13.2.7. Pure Long-Short Funds 152
    - 13.2.8. Risk Concentration 154
    - 13.2.9. Tail Risk 155
  - 13.3. Key Differences between Active Structures 157
    - 13.3.1. Hedge Funds versus ETFs 157
    - 13.3.2. Active Mutual Funds versus ETFs 158
    - 13.3.3. Active Funds and Regulation 159
  - 13.4. Chapter Summary 160
- 14. Smart Beta and Factor Investing 162
  - 14.1. Introduction 162
  - 14.2. Factors 162
  - 14.3. Closet Indexing 167
    - 14.3.1. Mutual Fund Factors 168
    - 14.3.2. Identifying Closet Indexers 171
    - 14.3.3. Can Active Share Predict Performance? 172
    - 14.3.4. What Does Active Share Measure? 173
    - 14.3.5. Multi-Manager Factor Risk 176
    - 14.3.6. Long Only versus Long-Short Implementation 177
  - 14.4. Fundamental Active ETFs 177
    - 14.4.1. Reverse Engineering 177
    - 14.4.2. Nontransparent Active ETFs 178
    - 14.4.3. Inferring Holdings from Public Data 179
    - 14.4.4. Practical Issues 180
  - 14.5. Capacity and Crowding 181
  - 14.6. Chapter Summary 181

PART V Public Policy, Regulation, and Systemic Risk

- 15. Flows 185
  - 15.1. Introduction 185
  - 15.2. Why Are Flows Important? 185
  - 15.3. Modeling Flows 186
    - 15.3.1. Universe 186
    - 15.3.2. Flow Dynamics 187

- 15.3.3. Equity Flows 189
- 15.3.4. Results for Fixed Income and Commodity ETFs 189
- 15.4. Applications of Flow Analysis 190
  - 15.4.1. Regulatory Context 190
  - 15.4.2. Sentiment and Flows 191
- 15.5. Do Passive Flows Affect Correlations? 192
- 15.6. Impact of Flows on Underlying Constituent Returns 194
  - 15.6.1. Pairwise Correlations 194
  - 15.6.2. Impact on Volumes of Underlying Assets 196
  - 15.6.3. Shock Propagation 196
- 15.7. Chapter Summary 197

- 16. Leveraged and Inverse Products 198
  - 16.1. Introduction 198
  - 16.2. Drivers of Growth 198
  - 16.3. Compounding and Returns 199
    - 16.3.1. Compounding and Return Decay 199
    - 16.3.2. Extensions 200
  - 16.4. Rebalancing 201
    - 16.4.1. Mechanics 201
    - 16.4.2. Impact of Rebalancing Activity 203
    - 16.4.3. Empirical Evidence on Rebalancing Activity 204
  - 16.5. Chapter Summary 206

- 17. Systemic Risk 207
  - 17.1. Introduction 207
  - 17.2. Regulatory Issues and Policy Implications 208
  - 17.3. Possible Risks and Dependencies 209
    - 17.3.1. Visualizing the Ecosystem 209
    - 17.3.2. Dependence of Authorized Participants 209
  - 17.4. Fire Sales and Redemption Risk 212
  - 17.5. Policy Tools 214
    - 17.5.1. Swing Pricing 214
    - 17.5.2. The Fund Managers' Tool Kit 215
    - 17.5.3. Example: Leveraged Loans 216
  - 17.6. Do ETFs Drive Prices of Underlying Assets? 216
    - 17.6.1. Imputed Flow 217
    - 17.6.2. Concerns about Differential Weighting and Flows 218
    - 17.6.3. Governance and Passive Flows 219
  - 17.7. Chapter Summary 221

- 18. Public Policy Issues 222
  - 18.1. Overview of Concerns 222
  - 18.2. Common Myths 222
    - 18.2.1. Excess Shorting 222
    - 18.2.2. Securities Lending and Counterparty Risk 223

18.2.3. Settlement Failures	225
18.2.4. Synthetics	225
18.2.5. Fund Closures	226
18.3. Flash Crash	227
18.3.1. Theories of the Flash Crash	227
18.3.2. Flash Crash and Fragmentation	229
18.4. Flash Back	231
18.4.1. Market Disruption of August 2015	231
18.4.2. ETFs in the August 2015 Flash Event	232
18.5. Chapter Summary	234
19. Future Opportunities	236
19.1. Introduction	236
19.2. Long-Horizon Drivers	236
19.3. Technology	237
19.3.1. The Growing Importance of Technology and Analytics	237
19.3.2. Digital Advisors	238
19.3.3. Data Science and Behavioral Finance	239
19.3.4. Individual Investors	240
19.4. Final Remarks	240
Glossary	243
References	247
About the Author	253
Disclosure Statement	255
Author Index	257
Subject Index	261