

Table of Contents

Index of figures	XIII
Index of tables.....	XVII
Table of abbreviations.....	XXIII
Index of symbols	XXVII
A Holistic multisensory approach as an opportunity for brand management in soccer.....	1
1 Opportunities that holistic sensory approaches open up for the brand management of soccer clubs.....	1
2 Definitions of relevant terms in the sporting context	16
3 Theoretical definitions in relevant research fields	30
4 Aim and structure of study	38
B Theoretical foundations and development of integrated reference framework	41
1 Theoretical foundations of brand management	41
1.1 Definition of brand image.....	41
1.2 Brand controlling.....	43
1.3 GAP-model as evaluation technique for brand positioning	47
2 Sports as an autonomous academic discipline	51
2.1 Characteristics specific to sports	51
2.2 Visitors.....	54
2.3 Brand management in sports	61
3 Multisensuality	66
3.1 Classification of senses	66
3.2 Environmental stimuli of a soccer event	70
3.3 Stadium atmosphere	74

4	Development of integrated reference framework	77
4.1	Illustration of current theoretical models	77
4.1.1	Discussion of multisensuality in communication models.....	78
4.1.2	Discussion of multisensuality in S-O-R models.....	79
4.2	Bochum	81
4.2.1	The city of Bochum	82
4.2.2	VfL Bochum 1848 in the competitive environment of the Ruhr area.....	83
4.2.3	rewirpowerSTADION	87
4.2.4	Determination of model constructs	89
4.2.5	Mission Statement	93
4.3	Derivation of integrated reference framework.....	99
4.3.1	Determination of theses	101
4.3.2	Derivation of hypotheses	103
C	Empirical study of sensory perception and effectiveness during games played by the German soccer club VfL Bochum 1848	110
1	Design and methodology of the empirical study	110
1.1	Data collection methods	110
1.1.1	Recruitment of targeted groups	111
1.1.2	Incentivization of participants.....	113
1.1.3	Carrying out the surveys	114
1.1.4	Participation rates	116
1.2	Illustration of database	119
1.3	Methods and evaluation criteria of statistical analyses	127
1.3.1	Causal analysis.....	129
1.3.2	Variance-based SEM vs. Covariance-based SEM.....	133

1.3.3	Formative vs. reflective model	137
1.3.4	Assessment criteria	139
1.4	Scaling.....	146
2	Illustration of empirical results	154
2.1	Results for area 'outside of the stadium'.....	157
2.1.1	How verbal and non-verbal stimuli affect satisfaction and positive attitudes toward the event in the area 'outside of the stadium'	158
2.1.2	How verbal and non-verbal stimuli affect brand attitude in the area 'outside of the stadium'	164
2.2	Results for area 'inside of the stadium'	170
2.2.1	How verbal and non-verbal stimuli affect positive attitude toward the event in the area 'inside of the stadium'	170
2.2.2	How verbal and non-verbal stimuli affect brand attitude in the area 'inside of the stadium'	176
2.3	Overall results.....	182
2.3.1	How verbal and non-verbal stimuli affect satisfaction and positive attitudes toward the event in the areas 'inside' and 'outside' of the stadium	182
2.3.2	Relation of verbal and non-verbal representations of the areas inside and outside of the stadium to brand attitude...	193
2.3.3	Changes in brand attitude before and after the games.....	198
2.3.4	Derivations for behavioral intentions.....	204
2.3.4.1	How brand statement evaluations after the game and overall satisfaction with the event impact behavioral intentions.....	204
2.3.4.2	How changes in brand statement evaluation (before vs. after the game) and overall satisfaction with the event impact behavioral intentions	213
2.4	Are gustatory and olfactory stimuli relevant to soccer events?	221
2.5	How do these results relate to identity-based brand management strategies?	223

D	Summary and implications	227
1	Summary of main results	227
2	Practical implications	239
3	Implications for future research	242
	Appendix	251
	Bibliography	271