

Contents

Acknowledgements IX

Introduction: A Journey around the Picaresque Novel 1

- 1 History through Roguish Eyes 13
Foreword 13
History and Picaresque Fiction 17
Meaning and Significance in Historical Fiction 21
The Pícaro and History 25
 Dual Sign Irony 28
 'Historical' Irony 30
 Deictic Markers of Time and Space 36
 Polemical Use of the Allocutive Pronoun 'you' 39
 Metonymy 43
 Markers of 'being' and 'seeming' 46
Otto, Baudolino, Niketas: Three Portraits of the Emperor 55
The Death of Two Obsessions 61
- 2 Alienation and Counter-culture 66
Foreword 66
The Picaresque Counter-culture 70
 What Happens at the Boundary? 71
 The Stranger, der Fremde, l'estraneo 74
 Mirror Symmetry and Alienation 83
Mythological and Metadescriptive Consciousness 87
Homonyms/Synonyms 92
 Circumlocution 94
 Euphemism 98
 Synecdoche 101
 Acting vs Improvising 104
 Rhetorical Questions 107
Odilo's Private Holocaust 115
- 3 Women on the Edge: Sexuality and Gender Dissent 120
Foreword 120
Platonic Love and the Pícaro 124
Cupid, Psyche and Curiosity 134
The Constraints of Nature 140

	Procreation	142
	Parenthood	150
	The Constraints of Society	156
	Demystified Women	164
	Religion	165
	Sentimental Love	167
	Primeval Innocence	170
	Literature, Ambition and Transcendence in Vendita Galline km 2	175
	King Lear's Pasteboard Crown	179
4	Humour and the Muffled Voice of Reason	188
	Foreword	188
	Varieties of Humour in the Picaresque	195
	Irony	196
	Irony in the Picaresque: Benni and Doyle	203
	Contradiction	206
	Self-irony	213
	Summary	221
	Satire	223
	Self-satire	228
	Parody	231
	The Enlightened Grin	238
	The Enlightenment Watershed	244
	Individualism, Common Good and General Will	248
	Experience and Causation	255
	The Question of Happiness	262
	God's Laughter in Saltatempo	265
	Concluding Remarks	272
	Bibliography	283
	Index	298