

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Introduction	xi

I HUMANISM AND ANTIHUMANISM

1 Nosce Teipsum : Learning the Method	3
2 Nosce Teipsum : Charting New Courses	26

2 THEORY AND ADAPTATION

3 Microcosm and Macrocosm: Framing the Picture of Man	43
4 The Comedy of Errors : Losing and Finding Oneself	62
5 Love's Labor's Lost : Seeking Oneself	78
6 Richard II : Looking into the Mirror of Grief	97
7 Henry V : Patterning after Perfection	113

3 PROBLEMS AND AMBIGUITIES

8 The Real versus the Ideal: Taking a Skeptic View	131
9 Julius Caesar : Taking an Uncertain Road	150
10 Hamlet : Probing a Restless Self	172
11 Troilus and Cressida : Fragmenting a Divided Self	195
12 Measure for Measure : Looking into Oneself	215

4 ACHIEVEMENT AND SYNTHESIS

13 Will and Passion: Heightening the Self	239
14 Othello : Subjecting the Self	259
15 King Lear : Valuing the Self	281
16 King Lear : Stripping the Self	305

CONTENTS

17 Macbeth : Losing the Self	327
18 The Tempest : The Mastered Self	356

APPENDIXES

A Hamlet : "What is a man?"	387
B Lucrece : "Why should the worm intrude the maiden bud?"	390
C Hamlet : "What a piece of work is a man!"	399
Notes	405
Index	437