

Contents

Acknowledgments XI

1 Introduction 1

PART 1

The Copy as Imitation and Enumeration in Perec

2 Copious Beginnings 7

2.1 The incipit of Un cabinet d'amateur (1979) 7

2.2 Defining the Copy 9

2.3 Original and Copy 13

2.4 Mimesis 15

2.5 Copy as copia 18

3 Copying in Literature 24

3.1 Literature in the Age of the Scribe 24

3.2 Literature in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction 30

4 Perec and His Copies 36

4.1 Copying in Cabinet 36

4.2 Copies in Cabinet: A Brief Typology 37

PART 2

Pastiches

5 Cabinet as Pastiche 41

6 The Kunstkammer in History and in Cabinet 51

7 The Discourse on Authentication 57

PART 3

Paintings

- 8 Copying in Painting 85
 8.1 The Tradition of the Painter-Apprentice 85
 8.2 Fakes, Forgeries, and Citations 87
- 9 Painting in Cabinet 97
- 10 Trompe-l'œil and L'Œil ébloui (1981) 104
- 11 From One Canvas to Another 113

PART 4

Intertexts

- 12 Intertextuality in Cabinet 117
- 13 An Immediate Intratextual Source: La Vie mode d'emploi (1978) 120
- 14 An Intertextual Reference: Pierre Grassou by Balzac (1839) 141
- 15 An Early Intratextual Source: Le Condottière (1957–60) 152
- 16 To Copy Is to Create: Menard's "Copy" 164
- 17 The Copy in Warhol: Imitation, Enumeration, and Death 173

PART 5

Conclusion

- 18 Copy Play in Perec and Warhol 181
 18.1 The Copy as Original and Double 181
 18.2 Hidden Origins: Fog and Fogging in Perec 184
 18.3 A Memorial and a Celebration, a Forging of Life from Death 189

Bibliography 193

Index 202