

CONTENTS

PREFACE

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

INTRODUCTION

1. In the Days of My Youth 1
2. "Be Careful and Stay Out of Trouble" 22
3. Frustrations, Doubts, Dreams 35
4. Finding Out for Myself 50
5. Atlanta, 1921-1924 66
6. Morehouse and Shiloh 89
7. Chicago to Orangeburg to Tampa 99
8. The Tampa Story 106
9. Two More Detours 125
10. In the Nation's Capital 139
11. Race and Caste Outside the U.S.A. 149
12. Learning the Problem in Depth 162
13. So Much with So Little and So Few 170
14. Other Involvements 196
15. Southern Negro Leaders Challenged the White South 213
16. Politicians and President Kennedy 221
17. Morehouse School of Religion and the Interdenomination Center 234
18. The Church and Race 241

19. Martin Luther King, Jr.	265
20. I Can Sing Atlanta: The Trail Blazers	275
21. I Can Sing Atlanta: The Young Warriors	287
22. Retrospect and Prospect	300

APPENDICES

A. The World in Which I Was Born and Reared	323
B. The Church Amidst Ethnic and Racial Tensions	349
C. Eulogy at the Funeral Services of Martin Luther King, Jr., at Morehouse College, Atlanta, Georgia, April 9, 1968	357
D. Interracial Hypertension	361
E. Statement of Conference of White Southerners on Race Relations	363
F. The Richmond Statement	366
G. Excerpts from Correspondence Regarding Merger of Seminary Work of Gammon, Morris Brown, and Morehouse	368
H. Degrees	370
INDEX	371