TABLE OF CONTENTS

Section I: Introduction: The Present State of Knowledge About Blackmore and the Purposes of this Dissertation

Section II: Blackmore's Life and Novels:
- Chapter I: The Life and Character of Blackmore
- Chapter II: An Analytic Account of His Novels

Section III: Influences Upon Blackmore and the Origins of His Materials:
- Chapter I: Possible Literary Influences Upon Blackmore
- Chapter II: The Origins of His Materials

Section IV: Blackmore's Place in the Victorian Novel:
- Chapter I: Novelists Remote from Blackmore in Manner and Content
  1. The Novel of Rebellion—Charlotte Brontë
  2. Mrs. Gaskell
  3. George Meredith
  4. Bulwer-Lytton
  5. Mrs. Gaskell
  6. Reade
  7. Kingsley
  8. Dickens
- Chapter II: Novelists Who Approach Blackmore More Nearly
  1. Cooper
  2. Bulwer-Lytton in the Historical Novel
  3. Reade—The Cloister and The Hearth
  4. Thackeray—Historical Realism
Chapter III: Novelists Who Approach Him Most Nearly

A. Scott—The Historical Novel
B. Kingsley—Westward Ho!
C. George Eliot—The Novel of Psychology

Section V: The Merits and Faults of Blackmore's Novels

Appendix I: Some Unpublished Letters of R. D. Blackmore

Appendix II: Blackmore's Effect and Vogue

Appendix III: Bibliography

Index