

Table of contents

INTRODUCTION

Evidentiality revisited	1
Juana I. Marín Arrese, Gerda Haßler and Marta Carretero

Section A. Evidentiality: Cognitive Grammar and Functional Grammar Approaches

CHAPTER 1

Evidentiality in Cognitive Grammar	13
Ronald W. Langacker

CHAPTER 2

Evidentiality reconsidered	57
Jan Nuyts

Section B. Evidentiality in Grammar and Discourse

CHAPTER 3

On the evidential use of English adverbials and their equivalents in Romance languages and Russian: A morpho-syntactic analysis	87
Verónica Böhm, Gerda Haßler and Anja Hennemann

CHAPTER 4

When feeling is thinking: A lexical-semantic analysis of evidential and epistemic predicates in Spanish	105
Gijs Mulder

CHAPTER 5

Seem-type verbs in Dutch and German: Lijken, schijnen &amp; scheinen	123
Tanja Mortelmans

CHAPTER 6
A synchronic and diachronic study of the Dutch Auxiliary “ Zou(den) ” Ingeborg Harmes	149
CHAPTER 7
Potential vs Use: Revisiting an evidential participial construction in Lithuanian Aurelija Usonienė and Jolanta Šinkūnienė	171
Section C. Evidentiality and Epistemic Modality in Discourse Domains and Genres
CHAPTER 8
Multifunctionality of evidential expressions in discourse domains and genres: Evidence from cross-linguistic case studies Juana I. Marín Arrese	195
CHAPTER 9
Evidential and epistemic stance strategies in scientific communication: A corpus study of semi-formal and expert publications Laura Hidalgo-Downing	225
CHAPTER 10
BE likely to and BE expected to , epistemic modality or evidentiality? Markers of (non)commitment in newspaper discourse Anne-Laure Besnard	249
CHAPTER 11
Markers of evidentiality in Lithuanian newspaper discourse: A corpus- based study Anna Ruskan	271
CHAPTER 12
Exploring evidential uses of the passive of reporting verbs through corpus analysis Ruth Breeze	297
Index of expressions	315
Subject index	317