
Contents

Contributors	VIII
D. Kuhn
Introduction	1
Identifying and Analyzing Thinking Skills	2
Examining the Understanding of Thinking	4
The Determining Role of Context	5
Thinking as a Social Activity	5
The Development of Thinking Skills	6
Defining Educational Goals	7
References	8
L. Schauble, R. Glaser
Scientific Thinking in Children and Adults	9
Children's Exploration of the Race Cars Microworld	11
College Adults' Exploration of the Race Cars Microworld	15
Undergraduates' Exploration of a Microeconomics Laboratory	18
Conclusions: Age Differences in Scientific Thinking	21
Implications for Education	25
Acknowledgements	26
References	26
J. Baron
Harmful Heuristics and the Improvement of Thinking	28
Actively Open-Minded Thinking	29
Heuristics and Biases	31
Where Do Harmful Heuristics Come from?	33

Overgeneralization Error	38
The Development of Biases	43
Conclusion	44
Acknowledgements	45
References	45

K.S. Kitchener, K.W. Fischer

A Skill Approach to the Development of Reflective Thinking	48
The Nature of Higher-Order Reasoning Skills	49
Key Ideas in Skill Theory	53
Functional and Optimal Levels of Reflective Judgment	56
Educational Implications of the Skill Approach	59
Acknowledgements	60
References	61

L. Okagaki, R.J. Sternberg

Teaching Thinking Skills: We're Getting the Context Wrong	63
Context Matters	64
Effect of Context on Children's School Performance	66
Effect of the School Context on Children's Thinking	72
Making School an Effective Context for Teaching Thinking Skills	74
Acknowledgements	76
References	77

M. Krechevsky, H. Gardner

Approaching School Intelligently: An Infusion Approach	79
A New Conception of Intelligence	80
The Practical Intelligence for School (PIFS) Project	82
Conclusions	92
Acknowledgements	93
References	93

W. Damon

Social Relations and Children's Thinking Skills	95
Interactional Diversity and Developmental Outcome	96
Varieties of Adult-Child Learning Interactions	97
Varieties of Peer Interaction and Their Diverse Contributions to Children's Learning	102
Conclusions	105
References	106

A.L. Brown, J.C. Campione

Communities of Learning and Thinking, or a Context by Any Other Name	108
Higher-Order Thinking Skills in Reading	110
Fostering Reading Comprehension via Reciprocal Teaching	111
Reciprocal Teaching of Coherent Content	113
Reciprocal Teaching in the Context of an Intentional Learning Environment	115
A Context by Any Other Name	122
A Community of Learning	123
Acknowledgements	124
References	125
Subject Index	127