

CONTENTS

General Introduction	xi
Part One Human Learning in Adult Life
Introduction to Part One	3
1 Learning and Society	5
	Harry Kay
2 Skill and Error in Everyday Life	21
	James Reason
3 Learning Social Skills	45
	Kenneth Strongman
4 Personality and Learning	63
	Paul Kline
5 Learning to Learn: the Personal Construction and Exchange of Meaning	85
	Laurie Thomas and Sheila Harri-Augstein
Part Two The Acquisition of Knowledge
Introduction to Part Two	105
6 Acquiring Knowledge from Prose and Continuous Discourse	107
	Fitz Taylor
7 Practical Strategies for Human Learning and Remembering	125
	Peter Morris
8 Learning and the Acquisition of Knowledge by Students: Some Experimental Investigations	145
	Michael Howe
9 Programmed Learning and Educational Technology	161
	James Hartley and Ivor Davies
Part Three Learning and Modern Society
Introduction to Part Three	185
10 Adult Learning and Industrial Training	187
	Mike Smith

11 Learning to Cope with Atypical Force Environments	203
James Reason
12 Understanding Instructional Text: Typography, Layout and Design	223
James Hartley and Peter Burnhill
13 Are Teaching Innovations in Post-secondary Education Irrelevant?	249
Donald Bligh
14 The Open University as a Forum for the Implementation of New Approaches to Learning	267
Peter Morris
Author Index	283
Subject Index	289