

Table of Contents

I.	Introduction: The Australian Antidote	7
II.	Writing the Discourse: Terrorism, Literature and Post-9/11 Fiction	13
	2.1 Creating the Enemy: Terrorism as a Discourse	13
	2.2 Representations of Terrorism and “9/11” in English Fiction.....	21
	2.3 Terrorism as a Theme in Australian Fiction.....	29
III.	The Discursive Antidote: Terrorism as a Theme in Recent Australian Fiction.....	39
	3.1 Due Preparations for the Plague : Terror as a Case of Epidemic	39
	3.2 Terrorism as Myth of the Underground: Janette Turner Hospital’s Orpheus Lost	62
	3.3 Adib Khan’s Spiral Road : Terror as a Response to the Globalised World	83
	3.4 The Unknown Terrorist : Fashions of the Terrorism Question.....	101
	3.5 Andrew McGahan’s Underground : Terrorism as Satire.....	124
IV.	Conclusion: Telling Terror in Australian Post-9/11 Fiction.....	151
	Works Consulted.....	161