

Contents

Foreword . . . . .	vii
Graham Allison
Translator's Note . . . . .	xi
Joshua Hill
Preface . . . . .	xvii
Xu Qiyu
1. A Low-Posture Rise . . . . .	1
2. "Active Shaping" and the Foundation of a Grand Strategy . . . . .	33
3. Working to Maintain the Grand Strategy . . . . .	67
4. Entering the Post-Bismarckian Era . . . . .	95
5. Institutions, Society, Popular Opinion, and Grand Strategy. . . . .	127
6. From Weltpolitik to Encirclement . . . . .	155
7. An Obsession with Command of the Seas . . . . .	191
8. The Schlieffen Plan and the Retreat of Grand Strategy. . . . .	227
9. Crisis Management on the Path to World War, 1908–1914 . . . . .	259
<hr/>
Notes . . . . .	293
About the Author . . . . .	329
Contributors . . . . .	331
Index . . . . .	333
Belfer Center Studies in International Security . . . . .	343
About the Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs . . . . .	346