

Contents

Acknowledgments	page	xiii
Introduction		I
Part One: Ordinary children in the classroom		5
1 Troublesome behaviour of ordinary children and how it is affected by the classroom situation		7
The significance of ambivalent feelings		7
Group dynamics and behaviour patterns in the classroom		9
Ambivalent feelings in the classroom		11
2 The child: stresses in the classroom situation		14
Separation from the mother and the family		15
Task orientation		16
Relationships with peers		17
The child and the teacher		18
The teacher as assessor of the child's work		19
Stresses of adjustment at different age levels		21
3 Stresses on the teacher at school		23
The teacher's role		23
The teacher's concern about his knowledge of the subject matter		25
The teacher's concern about methods and ways of presentation		26
The complexities of keeping discipline		28
The importance of relationships within the
		ix

CONTENTS

	staff group and between the staff and the school's management group	29
	The importance of the communication system	30
	Teachers and parents	30
	The expectation of perfection in teachers	32
	The consequences of these unrealistic expectations	33
	The need to reduce the stress	35
	Part Two: The difficult child in the classroom	37
4	What is a difficult child?	39
	Problems of identification	40
	Choice of cases	42
	Categories of difficulties	43
5	The child with behaviour problems	44
	Main characteristics	45
	The story of Alan	46
	Daniel and his problems with aggression	48
	Conrad and his uncontrollable temper tantrums	50
	The story of Dick	53
	Roland and his headmistress	55
	Mary, the fire-raiser	56
	The problems of helping these children	57
6	Children with learning problems	59
	Teachers' attitudes to learning problems	60
	Sudden deterioration of work	62
	Specific learning difficulties	64
	Reading difficulties and behaviour problems	64
	Physical defects and specific reading disability	67
	Specific spelling difficulties	68
	Difficulties with arithmetic	70
	Children with low general ability	71
	Remediation of learning difficulties	72
7	The withdrawn, inattentive child	73
	An underfunctioning grammar school child	74
	Eddy, the slightly odd boy	75

	The problems of a very bright child	75
8	The school refuser	77
	School refusal and the law	77
	Transfer from primary to secondary school	78
	Truancy	79
	School refusal and the family	80
	Stanley	81
	Dorian	82
	Sam	84
	How the school can help	85
9	The delinquent	86
	Delinquency and learning problems—Kay	86
	Delinquency and inability to make close relationships—John	89
	Problems of helping delinquents	90
Part Three: The teacher as helping agent to troublesome children		93
10	Class management and teaching techniques	95
	The importance of meaningful activities	96
	The teacher and the demands of the curriculum	97
	Learning plateaux and the importance of success	99
	Prescribed programmes: teaching to read as an illustration of their uses and limitations	100
	The interesting lesson as the basis for class control	102
11	Class management and the emotional development of the child.	104
	The value of 'oblique' discussions of unacceptable feelings for the pupil-teacher relationship	105
	The effect of 'oblique' discussions on class control	106
	Ways of facilitating expression of feelings	107
	Feelings experienced in repetitive practice of skills	108
	The teacher's feelings about himself as an authority figure	109

CONTENTS

	The effect of the teacher's feelings on class control	110
	What can be done?	111
12	Towards increasing insight and understanding	113
	'Learning about feelings': difficulties in communication	113
	Informal ways of increasing insight and understanding	114
	Discussion of practical experience as a basis for training	115
	The Neighbourhood Schools' Service of the Tavistock Clinic	116
	Nina, an example of school consultation	117
	Training courses in inter-personal relationships	120
	A conference of the English New Education Fellowship: an example	121
	'Blind spots'	123
	Supervisory groups for teachers	124
	Group relations training	125
13	Outside help for children with problems	126
	The importance of parents	126
	The need for investigation	127
	Problems of investigations and reasons for delay	128
	The need for early referral	130
14	Conclusion: the tribulations of teaching and its opportunities	131
	The present situation	131
	A change of attitude	132
	The teacher's unique opportunity of helping troublesome children	133
	Advantages and disadvantages of the lack of a formula	133
	Suggestions for further reading	135
	References	141