Contents

1 Introduction 1
References 7

2 Cartesian Meditation and the Pursuit of Virtue 9
2.1 Who Is the Cartesian Meditator? Four Proposed Answers 9
2.1.1 A Philosophically Naïve Person of Common Sense 9
2.1.2 A Skeptic 11
2.1.3 A Scholastic Aristotelian 13
2.1.4 An Amalgam of Personas 14
2.2 An Alternative Kind of Response: Rejecting the Question 15
2.2.1 Meditations in the Roman Catholic Contemplative Tradition 16
2.2.2 Meditations, the Meditations, and the Pursuit of Virtue . . . 18
2.3 Conclusion 20
References 20

3 The Cartesian Framework 23
3.1 The Nature of Belief 23
3.2 The Proper Method of Belief Formation 28
3.2.1 The Method 28
3.2.2 Context and Limits 31
3.3 Conclusion 35
References 36

4 Morality as a Cosmopolitan Art 37
4.1 The Nature of Descartes's Morality 38
4.1.1 Is It a Science? 38
4.1.2 Is It Stoic? 40
4.2 The Application of Descartes's Cosmopolitan Art 47
4.2.1 Virtue 47
4.2.2 Moral Psychology 49

digitalisiert durch
IDS Basel/Bern, im Auftrag der
Schweizerischen Nationalbibliothek

4.3 Conclusion . . . 51
References . . . 52

5 Virtuous Belief Formation . . . 53
5.1 Virtuous Enquiry . . . 53
5.1.1 Foundational Enquiry . . . 54
5.1.2 Ordinary Enquiry . . . 58
5.1.3 Summary: Virtuous Enquiry . . . 59
5.2 Virtuous Judgment . . . 60
5.2.1 Judgment and Moral Appraisal . . . 60
5.2.2 The Norm for Virtuous Judgment . . . 62
5.2.3 Summary: Virtuous Judgment . . . 64
5.3 Virtuous Belief Fixation . . . 64
5.3.1 The Concern . . . 65
5.3.2 Greater and Lesser Virtues . . . 65
5.3.3 The Need for a Program . . . 69
5.3.4 Summary: Virtuous Belief Fixation . . . 69
5.4 Conclusion . . . 70
References . . . 70

6 Virtue, Volition, and Judgment . . . 73
6.1 Negative Direct Doxastic Voluntarism . . . 75
6.2 Positive Direct Doxastic Voluntarism . . . 78
6.3 Conclusion . . . 80
References . . . 81

7 Natural Beatitude and Religious Reform . . . 83
7.1 Changing the Question . . . 83
7.2 A Second Pragmatic and Social Implication . . . 85
7.2.1 The Supernatural Significance of Descartes's Morality . . . 86
7.2.2 "Dangerous Doctrines"? . . . 89
7.2.3 Descartes's Defense . . . 91
7.2.4 The Reformative Nature of Descartes's Program . . . 92
7.3 Conclusion . . . 94
References . . . 94

8 The Subversion of Traditional Christianity . . . 97
8.1 Descartes's Morality and Traditional Christianity: Theoretical Differences . . . 99
8.1.1 Beatitude and the Supreme Good in Descartes's Morality . . . 99
8.1.2 Beatitude and the Supreme Good in Traditional Christianity . . . 100
8.1.3 Summary of the Differences . . . 106

8.2 Descartes's Morality and Traditional Christianity: Practical Differences . . . 107
8.2.1 The Pursuit of Virtue in Descartes's Morality . . . 107
8.2.2 The Pursuit of Virtue in Traditional Christianity . . . 108
8.2.3 Summary of the Differences . . . 112
8.3 Descartes's Morality and Traditional Christianity: Complementary or Inimical? . . . 113
8.3.1 Human Nature and Human Flourishing . . . 113
8.3.2 A Way of Life and an Art of Living . . . 117
8.4 Conclusion . . . 120
References . . . 120

9 Conclusion . . . 123
9.1 Summary . . . 123
9.2 Significance . . . 125
References . . . 128

Appendix: A Defense of Descartes's DDV . . . 131

Index . . . 149