

CONTENTS

CHAPTER	PAGE
Preface	v
Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	I
I.—Popular and Academic Misconceptions of Hypnopaedia	6
II.—The Theory of Hypnopaedia	8
III.—Hypnopaedia and Transfer-in-Learning Theories	45
IV.—The Aural-Mechanical Recognition of Unknown Material presented during Behavioural Sleep .	49
V.—The Application of Hypnopaedia for Supporting the Teaching of Various Subjects	59
VI.—The Intonation of Hypnopaedic Speech as Propounded by Bliznitchenko	88
VII.—Extracts from Illustrative Hypnopaedic Case Histories	99
VIII.—Hypnopaedic Lessons by Radio	114
IX.—Experience from the Practical Application of Hypnopaedia in Czechoslovakia	117
X.—Czech Students' Experiences of an Intensive Experimental Hypnopaedic and Daytime Teaching Project	121
XI.—The Application of Hypnopaedia in Militarized Training	130
Bibliography	134
Index	137