

Contents

Editorial Foreword to the Series		ix
Preface		xi
Acknowledgements		xiii
Chapter 1	WORK AND PERSONALITY	1
	Personality and organizational structure
	The function of work: past and present
	Freudian theories of work
	Self-actualization theories: personality work structure and task content
	The need for evidence
Chapter 2	UNDEREMPLOYMENT AND SKILL-UTILIZATION	20
	Inadequate psychological approaches to skill-utilization
	The evidence on underemployment
	Explanations of underemployment
	The nature of skill
	Objective and perceived job attributes
	Evidence for correspondence between objective and perceived job attributes
	Conclusion
Chapter 3	UNDEREMPLOYMENT, JOB SATISFACTION AND PERFORMANCE	52
	Skill-utilization and job satisfaction
	Work values, skill-utilization and job satisfaction
	Do challenging tasks determine work performance?
	Group structure, skill-utilization and performance

Chapter 4	JOB CONTENT, STRAIN AND HEALTH Identification of job content stressors Moderator approaches to job strain Strain as a function of person–job fit Person–job fit, skill-utilization and strain Strain and health Conclusion	72
Chapter 5	JOB CONTENT AND PERSONALITY The major areas of work and personality Effects of individual differences on reactions to job characteristics Reciprocal effects between job and personality structure	99
Chapter 6	JOB CONTENT, ALIENATION AND PERSONAL CONTROL Work alienation Substantive complexity and self-directing orientation Skill-utilization, alienation and locus of control	133
Chapter 7	PERSONAL CONTROL AND WORK PERFORMANCE Locus of control and work performance Personal causation Self-efficacy and self-esteem Conclusion	159
Chapter 8	THE PSYCHOLOGICAL EFFECTS OF UNEMPLOYMENT: STUDIES OF THE GREAT DEPRESSION General responses to unemployment The mediating effects of past job experiences on responses to unemployment Economic factors and responses to unemployment Conclusion	184

Chapter 9	THE PSYCHOLOGICAL EFFECTS OF UNEMPLOYMENT: RECENT STUDIES	209
	Aggregate studies: unemployment rate and behavioural disorder in large populations
	Unemployment, life stress and psychological states
	Individual-level studies of unemployment and economic loss
	Theoretical approaches to unemployment
Chapter 10	WORK, LEISURE AND RETIREMENT	251
	Work, employment and leisure
	Leisure needs and leisure satisfaction
	Leisure and retirement
Chapter 11	WORKING AND NOT WORKING	272
	Methods of improving person–job match
	Personal identity and person–job match
	The negative effects of extreme internal control beliefs on managerial behaviour
	Internal control and conservatism in management
	The future of work and work psychology
Author Index		304
Subject Index		312