

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction 1

The speaking subject 2

Saussure's general linguistics revisited 5

The book and the author function 9

The outline of contents 16

PART I | "Saussurean doctrine" and its discontents

1 The signifier and the signified 23

Arbitrariness of the sign 24

Graphic illustration: sign/signifier/signified 26

Critique of the nomenclature view of language 31

The nomenclature view of language and Bergson's philosophy of life 44

La langue: systemic, social, historical 47

2 Phonocentrism: Derrida 71

Natural symbolism of sound 72

Metaphysics of presence, and arche-writing 79

3 La langue and la parole, synchrony and diachrony 85

Double essence of language 86

Dual way to language 97

PART II | General linguistics: science and/or philosophy of language

- 4 Involuntary assumption of substance, and points of view in linguistics 109
- 5 Saussure's general linguistics as linguistic phenomenology 120
 - Predecessors: Kazan School of Linguistics, Kruszewski 120
 - Saussure's phenomenon 126
 - Effacement of consciousness in the Course 130
 - Consciousness structured like a language 134
 - Beyond the doctrine 147
- 6 Contributions to linguistic phenomenology: Hegel, Husserl, Merleau-Ponty 154
 - Phenomenological science: Hegel and Saussure 155
 - Early structuralism: Jakobson and Husserl 169
 - Phenomenology of language: Merleau-Ponty and Saussure 181

PART III | The inception and the reception of the "Saussurean doctrine": the Course

- 7 The editorial inception of the Course: Bally and Sechehaye 193
 - Ghostwriting 194
 - Book reviewing 205
 - The famous formula 213
 - Elementary structures of kinship in academia 219
 - Reversal of order 225
 - A taste for great abstractions 230
- 8 Structuralist and poststructuralist reception of the Course 239
 - Structuralism: east and west 242
 - Poststructuralism: Levi-Strauss, Lacan, Derrida 248

Appendix 1. English translations of the Course	257
Saussure séance	257
Saussure and Santa	260
Appendix 2. Saussure's silence	265
Bibliography	273
Index	281