

CONTENTS

A Note on Names and Terms ix

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction 1

Bachelor Japanists 1

Queer and Away: Three Case Studies 5

Japanism and/as Modernism 8

Japan as Origin and Opposite 10

Alternative Identities 17

Japan and Orientalism 19

Visuality and Japanism 26

Sight and Subversion 31

I. Originating Japanism: Fin-de-Siècle Paris 37

Modernism and Japonisme 37

The First Japoniste(s) 38

The First Fictions of Japonisme 47

- Alternative Origins, Other Fictions 50
- Japonaises and Japonistes: Women in the Spaces of Japonisme 56
- Bachelor Japoniste Quarters, Part 1: The House-Museum
of Henri Cernuschi 69
- Bachelor Japoniste Quarters, Part 2: The Maison des Goncourt 76
- The Afterlife of the Maison des Goncourt 93
- Bachelor Japoniste Quarters, Part 3: Hugues Krafft's Midori-no-sato 99
- A Coda About Japonisme's Beginnings 110
2. Bachelor Brahmins: Turn-of-the-Century Boston 117
- Japanism in the Athens of America 117
- Imagined Aristocracies and the Politics of Taste 127
- Implications for Institutions: Art History and Museums 135
- Fictions Enabling and Exclusive 141
- Fictions of Japanism and Gender 146
- Japanism and/as Religion 150
- The Private Space of Brahmin Japanism: W. S. Bigelow's Tuckanuck 159
- The Public Space of Brahmin Japanism, Part 1:
The First Museum of Fine Arts 165
- The Public Space of Brahmin Japanism, Part 2:
The Second Museum of Fine Arts 171
- Bachelor Japan 182
- A Japanism of Her Own: Isabella Stewart Gardner's House Museum 185
- Last Words: Japanism Re-viewed 198
3. Sublimation and Eccentricity in the Art of Mark Tobey:
Seattle at Midcentury 201
- Spectacles of Libertad 201
- Spirituality and/as Sublimation 204
- Engaging the East: Seattle and Devon 215
- Approaching the East with Bernard Leach 221
- Counter Encounters: Tobey and Leach in China and Japan 225
- Invoking the East: "White Writing" 237
- Reorienting Seattle with Morris Graves and John Cage 246
- A Marketplace of Ideas: Globalism and Regionalism
in the "Northwest School" 258
- The Avant-Garde and Its Exclusions 267

Japanese-American: Aesthetics of Affiliation in the Postwar Era 277
Disorienting Eccentricity: Japanism and/as the New Normal 283

Conclusion: On the End of Japanism 291

Notes 295

Bibliography 383

Index 411