

CONTENTS

I. THE USE OF STATISTICS

o.	With this key: a foreword on method	1
1.	The five samples: grammatical functions	6
2.	Pronouns and public relations	9
3.	The connotations of love and the importance of the atypical	16
4.	The I-less sonnets and the economy of Venus	19
5.	The non-You sonnets: dramatic meditations	28
	Excursus: A note on numerology	32

	TEXT OF SONNET 94	34
--	-------------------	----

II. LILIES THAT FESTER: THE STRATEGY OF SONNET 94 AND THE ETHICS OF POWER

o.1.	The world of It	35
1.0.	Metrical and logical pattern	37
1.1.	Octave versus sestet	38
1.2.	The lexical level	39
1.3.	The octave	40
1.4.	The sestet	41
1.5.	The structural schema	42
2.0.	The relevance of Edward III	42
2.1.	Sidney versus Edward III (lines 1-4)	46
2.2.	Hamlet's 'rightly' and Malcolm's 'graces' (line 5)	49
2.3.	The economics of power (lines 5-6)	53
2.4.	The Lords and the stewards (lines 7-8)	54
2.5.	Great creating nature (lines 9-10)	56
2.6.	Warwick speaks again (lines 13-14)	57
2.7.	True and false syllogisms	58
2.8.	Changing codes	60
2.9.	The dignity of dress (line 12)	61
2.10.	Deeds and weeds in Sonnet 69	62
2.11.	The Garden-State and Richard II	64
2.12.	The meaning of the form	68

CONTENTS

TEXT OF SONNET 121	70
III. 'TIS BETTER TO BE VILE: SONNET 121 AND THE ETHICS OF SOCIAL BEHAVIOUR
0.1. From 94 to 121	71
0.2. The sonnet out of context	72
1.0. Antithesis	72
1.1. Semantic areas	73
1.2. Deeds and rank thoughts (line 12 and Sonnets 69 and 94)	74
1.3. Reigning frailties (line 14 and Sonnet 109)	75
1.4. What peece of worke is a man	77
2.0. Metrical and logical structures	79
2.1. The functions of the rhyme-words	79
2.2. Finding a centre	80
2.3. The progress of pronouns	81
2.4. The structural pattern	84
3.0. The logic of meaning	84
3.1. Talbot's scorn	86
3.2. The lustful eyes	87
3.3. The new Machiavelli	90
3.4. Shakespeare's God	93
Excursus: The geometry of iteration—a note to § 3.3	101
INTERCHAPTER. LOVE'S USE AND MAN'S HUES IN SONNET 20
0. Spirit and Soul	105
1. Beauty is not Truth	109
2. The woman's part	111
3. The symmetry of the dual Eros	112
4. All Hues: the pattern of convergence	114
5. More matter, with less art	118
TEXT OF SONNET 129	120
IV. TH'EXPENSE OF SPIRIT: SONNET 129 AND THE ETHICS OF SEX
0.1. Occasionals: Sonnets 129 and 146	121
0.2. Critical hunting-ground	123
0.3. Emendations: Malone to Graves-Riding	125
0.4. Structural deception: Jakobson-Jones	127
1.0. The careless workman	129

CONTENTS

1.1. The forward thrust: the-sound-pattern	130
1.2. The progress of caesurae: the rhythmic pattern	133
1.3. Lust's bliss and woe: the logic of sound and rhythm	134
1.4. The world of men: the testimony of nouns	136
1.5. Abstract nouns versus adjectives	137
1.6. The progress of past participles	138
1.7. A mad world, my masters: past participles versus abstract nouns	139
1.8. Grammatical categories versus rhetorical figures	141
2.0. The times of lust	144
2.1. The nibbler at the bait	148
2.2. The maker and the taker	152
2.3. Deceptive palinode	155
TEXT OF SONNET 146	160
V. POOR SOUL: SONNET 146 AND THE ETHICS OF RELIGION
0.1. The Soul as 'Thou'	161
0.2. Reversed concentric patterns and the emendation of line 2	165
1.0. The Soul as vampyre: the morphologic structure	169
1.1. The grasping landlord and the Body as mansion	172
1.2. The Body as servant and the Soul as Coriolanus	175
1.3. Reversing the sound-pattern	179
1.4. The gyres, the gyres: the basic structure	182
2.0. The rebel powers and they that have power (Sonnet 94)	187
2.1. Corinthians and Colossians: Shakespeare versus Paul	190
2.2. Poor man, the centre	194
APPENDIX. Statistical Tables (see Chapter I)
I. Words most frequently used in five sequences and number of occurrences per sonnet	197
II. Personal pronominal forms in five sonnet sequences	198
III. Frequencies of connotative words	199
IV. 'I' and 'Thou' in Shakespeare's Sonnets	200
GENERAL INDEX	201
INDEX OF SHAKESPEARE'S WORKS	205