

Contents

List of tables	page ix
Notes on contributors	xi
Preface	xv
Krishan Kumar
Acknowledgements	xvii

Introduction: these Englands – a conversation on national identity
Arthur Aughey and Christine Berberich	1

Part I Englishness in discourse and opinion

1 Sense and sensibility: the conversational etiquette of English national self-identification	29
Susan Condor
2 Is the English lion ready to roar?	56
John Curtice
3 All white? Englishness, 'race' and ethnic identities	75
Paul Thomas
4 Towards a cosmopolitan England?	94
Christopher G. A. Bryant

Part II Englishness in politics and institutions

5 Conservatives and Englishness: a conversation between party and nation	115
Stephen Ingle
6 The left and Englishness	137
Matt Beech

7	Gordon Brown and the negation of England Simon Lee	155
8	The Englishness of Westminster Philip Norton	174
9	Englishness and local government: reflecting a nation's past or merely an administrative convenience? Colin Copus	193
 Part III Englishness in history and imagination
10	Faith, people and place: the English union in the writings of Arthur Mee and G.K. Chesterton Julia Stapleton	217
11	The changing face of Englishness: history, culture and character Gary Day	236
12	From Hardy to Larkin: poets and novelists in national conversation Patrick Parrinder	255
	Afterword Christine Berberich and Arthur Aughey	274
	References	280
	Index	314