

CONTENTS

FOREWORD | vii

INTRODUCTION | 1

I. ENLIGHTENMENT RECEPTION OF DON QUIJOTE | 5

1. Baroque, Enlightenment and Classicism | 5
2. Mayáns y Siscar's Vida | 9
3. Intermezzo | 25
4. Vicente de los Ríos' "Análisis" | 26
5. Enlightenment Concept of the Novel | 36

II. ATHENÄUM-ROMANTICISM | 39

1. Prefatory remarks on Romanticism | 39
2. Background | 41
3. Friedrich Schlegel's reading of Don Quijote | 45
4. Schelling's theory of symbolic language | 75
5. The Romantics' Allegorical Aesthetics | 91
6. The Novel According to the Athenäum Romantics | 105

III. GEORG LUKÁCS' THEORY OF THE NOVEL | 108

1. Lukács Readdresses the Schism between the Romantics and Hegel (and Goethe) | 108
2. Life Immanence and Epic Totality | 112
3. Great and Minor Epic | 122
4. The Demonic Born of the Collision between Counter-Reformation and Enlightenment | 131
5. Perspective | 139
6. Concept of the Novel in Theorie des Romans | 141

IV. VIKTOR SHKLOVSKY'S THEORY OF PROSE	144
1. The Formalist Project	144
2. O teorii prozy	148
3. Confronting Symbolism	151
4. Showdown with the 'Ethnographic School'	165
5. Primacy of Form	169
6. Constructing Don Quijote	179
7. Shklovsky's Concept of the Novel	188
8. Marthe Robert between Lukács and Shklovsky	191
V. ERICH AUERBACH'S THEORY OF REALISM	198
1. A Talented Reader	198
2. Cervantes' Arabesque Realism	200
3. Auerbach's Concept of the Novel	214
VI. MILAN KUNDERA'S ART OF THE NOVEL	216
1. European Cultural Heritage	216
2. L'Art du roman	224
3. Kundera's Concept of the Novel	235
CLOSING REMARKS	240
BIBLIOGRAPHY	249