

Table of Contents

1. Introduction .....	1
2. Toward an Understanding of American Philanthropy .....	11
2.1 ‘The Great American Game’ – America’s Philanthropic Tradition.....	11
2.1.1 ‘Definitions Belong to the Definers’ .....	13
2.1.2 Christianity, Democracy, and Capitalism – Philanthropy’s Historical Development in the United States .....	16
2.1.3 The Perception of Philanthropy: Between ‘Fascination and Suspicion’ .....	30
2.2 Philanthropy in American Literature and Literary Studies .....	39
3. ‘A House Divided’ – Toni Morrison’s Journey from House to Home .....	52
3.1 The Significance of Houses.....	52
3.2 House Imagery in Fiction.....	60
3.3 Contested Space: The ‘House/Home Antagonism’ in Toni Morrison’s Works.....	63
3.3.1 Ideal White Standard vs. Bleak Black Reality: The Bluest Eye as Paradigmatic Text for Morrison’s Oeuvre.....	65
3.3.2 Of Imperial Mansions, Urban Apartments, and Rural Shacks: The Futile Quest for ‘Home’ in Tar Baby .....	85
3.3.3 ‘Neither Sweet, nor Home,’ Neither Utopia nor Dystopia: Beloved and the Ambivalence of the American House .....	100
3.3.4 ‘Paradise Lost:’ The Inversion of Symbolic Spaces in A Mercy .....	117
3.3.5 Frank and Ycidra Money as Present-Day Hansel and Gretel in Home .....	141
3.3.6 Chapter Summary .....	172
4. ‘It Was/This Is Not a Story to Pass On’ – Readerly Figures in Toni Morrison’s Oeuvre .	175
4.1 Reader-Response Criticism .....	178
4.2 Readerly Figures in Morrison’s Oeuvre.....	184
4.2.1 Claudia MacTeer as Mediator between Implied Author and Audience.....	190
4.2.2 Between the Narrative Cracks – Denver Suggs as Readerly Figure .....	199
4.2.3 ‘How Unreliable I Am’ – Jazz ’ Unusual Narrator .....	215
4.2.4 Chapter Summary.....	239
5. Conclusion.....	242
Bibliography.....	252
Ehrenwörtliche Erklärung .....	274