

Contents

Preface to the Paperback Edition	ix
Acknowledgements	xix
A Note on Language	xxiii
Introduction	xxv

Part One Setting The Scene

1 The Bigger Picture: Globalisation and the Economics of Immigration	3
Nations and People Open Borders Does Large-scale Immigration Benefit Existing Citizens? Immigration Now, British Hubs and Caps
2 The Way We Live Now: How Are Britain's Minorities Doing?	47
Life in Merton Minorities Making Their Way Thinking about Integration and Segregation How Racist is Britain Still?

Part Two How Did We Get Here?

3 The First Great Arrival 1948–92	115
Early Years 1948–62 Conflict and Accommodation 1962–92
4 The Multicultural Odyssey	163
Sabeen and Yasmin What is Multiculturalism and Where Did it Come From? How Multiculturalism Changed its Spots Multiculturalism, What's the Big Idea?

5	The Second Great Arrival 1997–Today	210
	Labour's Greatest Legacy Revising the Multiculturalism Story Poles and Somalis, the Latest Arrivals The Muslim Question What about the White Workers?

Part Three Why It Matters and What We Do About It

6	Progressive Dilemmas	261
	The Heart of the Matter The Flight from State Welfare Is it Poverty or Ethnicity that Reduces Trust? Holding on to Nurse
7	The National Question	283
	Put Out More Flags What is a National Identity, and is Britain's Declining or Evolving? Britain, England and All That Nudging the Nation
8	Where Next?	319
	The Readjustment The Next Twenty Years: Ripples of Connection
	Bibliography	341
	Index	354