

Contents

Preface, vii

Short References, xiii

Part One: Introduction

1. Toward Rehabilitation, 3
2. Genesis: The Two "Strangers," 13
 - Basic Situation, 16
 - Time and the Writer, 19
 - Angels: Ambiguous and Mysterious, 23

Part Two: False Starts

3. "Young Satan" Emerges, 29
 - St. Petersburg (1897), 29
 - Eseldorf (1897-1898) (35-43),* 31
 - Ambiguous Angel (43-64, 157-64), 34
 - Vienna Interlude (1898), 39
4. "Schoolhouse Hill" (428-29), 44
 - Quarante-Quatre (175-85), 46
 - Bewitchments (185-200), 49
 - Wavering Points of View (200-215), 52
 - Errors and Errands (215-20), 53
 - More Images of Hannibal, 56
5. "The Chronicle of Young Satan" (64-72), 59
 - Animals and Witchcraft (72-89), 62
 - Lovers and the Angel (89-111), 65
 - Kinds of Knowledge, 67
 - London Interlude (1899-1900), 69
 - Determinism, Freedom, and Life Plans (111-33), 70
 - Theater of Civilization (133-39), 75
 - The Angel and the Fly (139-46), 77

* Page numbers refer to Stranger Manuscripts

MARK TWAIN'S MYSTERIOUS STRANGER

- Time and Distance (147-74), 81
- Unfinished Book, 82
- The Sense of Humor (152-56, 164-68), 84

Part Three: The Mysterious Stranger ("No. 44")

6. The Writing of "No. 44," 91
 - Beginning, 93
 - Middle, 94
 - End, 96
 - More to Say, 98
7. Confrontation and Interactions, 102
(Chapters 2-13: "Life was become very interesting.")
 - Print-Shop World (221-35), 103
 - Confrontation (235-51), 106
 - Crisis (251-60), 109
 - Union Trouble, 113
 - Doangivadam (276-98), 114
8. Mysteries, Mastery, and Salvation, 119
(Chapters 14-22: The Duplicate emerges: "The Dream Self . . . could he be saved?")
 - "Heathen" Mysteries (299-303), 120
 - Masters and Servants (303-20), 122
 - Tragedy and Comedy (316-34), 126
 - The Pathetic Brinkers (321-34), 131
9. The Complex Self and Mr. Clemens, 135
 - Waking, Dream, Soul, 137
 - The Problem of the Duplicates, 140
 - The Problem of Forty-four, 142
 - Know Thyself? 144
 - A Tribute to Livy? 150
10. A Tragicomedy of Courtship, 153
(Chapters 23-25: "I had only ruined myself!")
 - Rationalization, Repression, Ambivalence, 154
 - The Problem of Freedom (344-53, 403-5), 158
11. August and his Duplicate, 161
(Chapters 26-29: Know Thyself: "Brother, be my friend!"
Winding up the comedy.)
 - The Power of Blackness (353-69), 162
 - Of Cats and Women (358-63, 371-76), 165
 - Disposing of the Duplicate (376-81), 168

CONTENTS

12. Farewell to Forty-four, 172
(Chapters 30-34: "Turn backward, O Time" "I your poor servant have revealed you to yourself and set you free.")
 Disposing of the Crisis (386-94), 173
 "Turn Backward, O Time" (395-403), 177
 The Possibility of Freedom, 180
 Poor Servant of Truth (403-5), 184
 Unresolved Conflicts, 186
- Epilogue: The Dream of Mark Twain, 191
 Cartesian Science and Skepticism, 193
 A Last "Image of Hannibal," 198
- Appendixes
- A. Sources for "Cheating the Devil," 200
B. "The Devil's Sunday-School," 202
C. Some Possible Meanings of the Name "No. 44," 205
D. Revisions of Chapter 1 for "No. 44," 207
E. Mark Twain and Printers, 209
F. "No. 44," Time Scheme, 212
G. Mark Twain's Duplicates and the Double in Literature, 216
- Supplementary Notes, 219
Other Works Cited, 240
Index, 246