

CONTENTS

Martin Lund and A. David Lewis Whence the Muslim Superhero? .....	1
Nicholaus Pumphrey Niqab not Burqa: Reading the Veil in Marvel's Dust .....	20
Kevin Wanner "And, erm, religious stuff": Islam, Liberalism, and the Limits of Tolerance in Stories of Faiza Hussain.....	40
Chris Reynolds-Chikuma and Désirée Lorenz Kamala Khan's Superhero Burkini: Negotiating an Autonomous Position between Patriarchal Islamism, French Secularism, and Feminism .....	63
Dwain C. Pruitt The Comics That Hate Produced: Representing the African-American Muslim Experience in DC Comics .....	88
Mercedes Yanora Marked by Foreign Policy: Muslim Superheroes and their Quest for Authenticity.....	110
Fredrik Strömberg Superhero Comics from the Middle East: Tyranny of Genre?.....	134
Ken Chitwood Hero and/or Villain? The 99 and the Hybrid Nature of Popular Culture's Production of Islam .....	165
Aymon Kreil Qahera Here and There: Navigating Contexts in the Translation of a Muslim Egyptian Superheroine .....	187
Hussein Rashid Truth, Justice, and the Spiritual Way: Imam Ali as Muslim Super-hero .....	208
A. David Lewis and Martin Lund From Book to Tool: Editorial Remarks .....	235
Index .....	255