

Contents

General Editors' Preface	vii
List of Figures	xiii
Note on Languages and Translations	xv
Introduction	I
1. England, c.1000: This World is in Haste	11
I. Violence in Crisis: Wulfstan and Ælfric Writing the Last Days	14
II. The Anglo-Saxon Chronicles: Writing what Was Lost	32
III. Meaning and Uncertainty: Interpreting History	46
IV. The Battle of Maldon : Asking Questions	52
2. Conquests, Kings, and Transformations	65
I. Visions and Dreams: Miracle Stories in Conquered England	68
II. Transformations 1: Return of the Warrior King	85
III. Transformations 2: Soul-Searching	95
IV. Chronicles of Post-Conquest Kingship	101
V. Paying Court: New Ideals in the World	116
3. Know Yourself: Interiority, Love, and God	127
I. My Flesh Is Immune to All Corruption: Christina of Markyate's Certainty	136
II. The Self Enclosed: Guarding the Heart in the Ancrene Wisse	154
III. For who Is Richer than Christ?: The Love of God	168
IV. Conclusion: Selfhood without Individuality	179
4. The Bellator and Chevalerie : The Struggle for the Warrior's Soul	181
I. Chansons and Chronicles of Crusade: The Warrior's Entreaty	189

II. The Ordene de chevalerie and Roman des eles : Remaking Knighthood	196
III. Epic vassalage and Romance chevalerie : Knighthood Shaped by Narrative	206
IV. The Soldier's Sacred Oath: Knighthood and the State	213
V. Gui de Warewic : The Moral Claims of English Knighthood	222
VI. Sir Gawain and the Green Knight's Noble Device: An English Poet Criticizes chevalerie	234
5. It Is Different with Us: Love, Individuality, and Fiction	241
I. Marie de France's Lais , Lancelot, and Other Lovers	246
II. Strange Love: Thomas of Britain's Tristan	268
III. 'What appears to all, this we call Being'	286
IV. The Four Degrees of Violent Love	293
6. Conversations with the Living and the Dead	299
I. King Arthur, from Geoffrey of Monmouth to Wace and Lazamon	305
II. The Lamentations of Mary : Feeling for Christ in Latin Prose and French Verse	317
III. 'Stond wel, moder, ounder rode': Lyrics of Passion	326
IV. The Mirror of the Church and The Owl and the Nightingale : Orthodoxy and Reality	333
V. The South English Legendary : Faith and Community	346
7. Engletere and the Inglis : Conflict and Construction	357
I. The Community of the Realm: A New Public Discourse	369
II. 'He dredden him so þef doth clubbe': Power and Coercion in Havelok	379
III. The French and English Brut : Vernacular Writing and the Politicization of History	388
IV. Wynners and Defendours and Assaillours : Disorders of Society	416
V. Conclusion	427
Epilogue	431
Bibliography	439
Index	463