

Table of contents

Introduction	1
Belma Haznedar and F. Nihan Ketrez
Part I. Acquisition/processing of morphology, syntax and semantics
Sensitivity of Turkish infants to vowel harmony: Preference shift from familiarity to novelty	29
Annette Hohenberger, Aslı Altan, Utku Kaya, Özgün Köksal Tuncer and Enes Avcu
Turkish children's early vocabulary: A study on the lexical diversity of two sisters	57
Yasin Kaygusuz and Deniz Zeyrek
Acquisition of canonical and non-canonical word orders in L1 Turkish	79
Çiğdem Sağın-Şimşek
What does online parsing in Turkish-speaking children reveal about grammar?	99
Duygu Özge
Acquisition of scope relations by Turkish-English bilingual children	119
Vasfiye Geçkin, Stephen Crain and Rosalind Thornton
Part II. Discourse
Children's referential choices in Turkish: Experimentally elicited and conversationally occasioned determinants	153
A. Beyza Ş. Ateş, Özlem Ece Demir-Lira and Aylin C. Küntay
Learning to think, talk, and gesture about motion in language-specific ways: Insights from Turkish	177
Şeyda Özçalışkan and Samantha N. Emerson

Scene-setting and referent introduction in sign and spoken languages: What does modality tell us? Beyza Sümer	193
--	-----

Part III. Literacy development

Integrating cognitive and sociocultural aspects of reading in Turkish Aydın Yücesan Durgunoğlu	223
--	-----

Phonological awareness in reading acquisition: Evidence from reading skills of Turkish-English successive bilingual children Hatice Özata, Nalan Babür and Belma Haznedar	243
--	-----

Part IV. Typical vs. Atypical development in monolingual and bilingual Turkish-speaking children

Vocabulary and grammar acquisition in Turkish as assessed by the Turkish communicative development inventory: A comparison of typically developing and language delayed children İlknur Maviş and Selen Demirdöğenler	275
---	-----

Language impairment in Turkish-speaking children: The nature of morphological errors Seyhun Topbaş, Selçuk Güven, Ayşe Aydın Uysal and Deniz Kazanoğlu	295
---	-----

Language development in Turkish-speaking children with Autism Spectrum Disorders Saime Tek	325
---	-----

Verbal functional categories in the speech of a Turkish speaking child with autism N. Evra Günhan	341
--	-----

L2 children do not fluctuate: Production and on-line processing of indefinite articles in Turkish-speaking child learners of English Vasiliki Chondrogianni and Theodoros Marinis	361
--	-----

Second language exposure in the preschool: Relation to first language skills and executive functions Ash Aktan-Erciyes and Ayhan Aksu-Koç	389
--	-----

Index	413
--------------	------------