

Table of Contents

Uwe Schütte

Introduction – Pop Music as the Soundtrack of German Post-War History — 1

Julio Mendivil

Schlager* and Musical Conservatism in the Post-War Era — 25

David Robb

The Protest Song of the Late 1960s and Early 1970s – Franz Josef Degenhardt and Ton Steine Scherben — 43

John Littlejohn

Krautrock – The Development of a Movement — 63

Uwe Schütte

Kraftwerk – Industrielle Volksmusik between Retro-Futurism and Ambivalence — 85

Cyrus Shahan

Fehlfarben and German Punk: The Making of ‘No Future’ — 111

Christian Jäger

Ripples on a Bath of Steel – The Two Stages of Neue Deutsche Welle (NDW) — 131

Alexander Carpenter

Einstürzende Neubauten to Rammstein: Mapping the Industrial Continuum in German Pop Music — 151

Alexei Monroe

Sender Deutschland* – The Development and Reception of Techno in Germany — 171

Marissa Kristina Munderloh

Rap in Germany – Multicultural Narratives of the Berlin Republic — 189

VI — Table of Contents

Christoph Jürgensen and Antonius Weixler
Diskursrock* and the 'Hamburg School'. German Pop Music as Art and Intellectual Discourse — 211

Heinrich Deisl
Saying 'Yes!' While Meaning 'No!' – A Conversation with Diedrich
Diederichsen — 235

Contributors — 253

Bibliography — 257

Index — 263