

Contents

PREFACE	ix
NOTE ON ABBREVIATIONS	xiii
INTRODUCTION	1
Commissioned Spirits: An Overview	1
The Argument	7
I THE CONDITIONS OF WORK	13
The Imaginative Sense of Society	13
Systems of Vision and Knowledge	17
The Problematics of Career	23
Publication and Revolution	27
II DICKENS AND MELVILLE	32
Metaphor and Metonymy: The Case of Little Dorrit	34
The Rhetoric of Character: Grotesquerie and the Uncanny	43
The Family and the City: Selves in Motion	52
III PATTERNS IN DICKENS'S CAREER: FROM Martin Chuzzlewit TO Our Mutual Friend	58
IV PROBLEMS OF REALISM IN Martin Chuzzlewit	67
Aspects of the Novel: Story, Morality, Society	67
The First Number: Techniques of Dislocation	70
Modern Heroism	75
Activating London	78
The Yes of the Realist	83
Overview and Understanding: Chuzzlewit and After	89
V THE HOUSE AND THE RAILROAD: Dombey and Son AND The House of the Seven Gables	94

	Gothic Recesses: The Past and the Self	96
	Sketched Surfaces: Views of Modernity	105
	Overviews: Paul Pry versus the Good Spirit	111
VI	NARRATIVE FORM AND SOCIAL SENSE IN Bleak House AND The French Revolution	114
	Defining a Victorian Mode of Writing	116
	Science and Superstition: Victorian Cultural Codes	123
	Transformation as Process: Apocalypse Deferred	132
VII	HEROISM AND THE LITERARY CAREER: CARLYLE AND MELVILLE	139
	Portrait of Carlyle	141
	Heroism in the Age of Writing	148
	Writing and Experience in Moby-Dick	156
VIII	THE NOVELTY OF Our Mutual Friend	164
	The Disintegration of Plot and Dissolution of London	165
	The Escape from Synecdoche	176
	Toward a New Economy of Writing	179
	CONCLUSION	186
	INDEX	191