TABLE OF CONTENTS

Foreword 1

1. Introduction 3

1.1 Sign and Significate; Tongue and Discourse 3
1.2 Operation and Time 6
1.3 The Act of Representation 8
1.4 The Parts of Speech 11
1.5 Chronogenesis and Mood 13
1.6 Tense 18

2. Aspect in Tongue 22

3. Aspect in Discourse 32

3.1 Immanent vs Transcendent Aspects of the Simple Non-past 32
3.1.1 The Distinction in General 32
3.1.2 Material and Formal Criss-cross 36
3.1.3 Have got 39
3.1.4 Totaling vs Sum Total 42
3.1.5 Clauses Expressing a Condition 43
3.1.6 The Final Limit of the Event 44
3.1.7 Accidental Equivalence 46
3.2 Immanent vs Transcendent Aspects of the Simple Past 48
3.2.1 An Influence of Tense on Aspect 48
3.2.2 Interchangeability of the two Aspects in the Past 49
3.2.3 Indirect Speech, Substitutionary Narration, etc. 55
3.2.4 Verbs of Prospection 58
3.2.5 External Limit and Clauses of Rejected Condition 59

3.3 Immanent Aspect in the Simple Past vs Transcendent Aspect in the Simple Non-past 62
3.3.1 Aspect and Tense 62
3.3.2 Current Relevance, Present Result, etc. 64
3.3.3 Expressions of Past Time 69
3.3.4 Repetition and Experience 72
3.3.5 Impressions of Recency 76
3.3.6 Today, This Week, Always, Never, etc. 78
3.3.7 Clauses Recalling a Previous Topic 81
3.3.8 Various Impressions 83
3.4 Events Seen as States or as Actions 90
3.4.1 The Distinction between State and Action 90
3.4.2 Non-persistence vs Persistence of a State 92
3.4.3 Grammatical vs Non-grammatical Criteria 97
3.4.4 He has been to Paris 98
3.4.5 Actions with Expressions of Time 99
3.5 Transcendent Aspect : Progressive vs Simple 102
3.5.1 Transcendent Aspect, Progressive Form 102
3.5.2 Unfinished vs Finished Event 105
3.5.3 Possibility of Continuation 112
3.5.4 Expressions of Quantity 114
3.5.5 Repetition 115
3.5.6 Impending Events 117
3.5.7 Concomitant Effects 118
3.6 Immanent vs Transcendent : Infinitive 122
3.6.1 The Position of the Infinitive 122
3.6.2 The Infinitive after will, etc. 123
3.6.3 The Infinitive after Verbs of Prospection 125
3.6.4 If I hadn't have lost 127
Conclusion 129
Appendix 131
Bibliography 146