

Contents

	Preface	xi
ONE	Hermits in their Landscapes	1
Green Thoughts	The Old Hieroglyphic Landscape	9
and Shades	The New Empirical Landscape	12
1	Marvell's Gardens	15
	Gardens of a New Model	25
	Landschips . . . & Such Wilde Workes	36
	Borrowed from the Poets	48
	Tomorrow to Fresh Fields	57
TWO	Scenes for Contemplation	58
Gardening,	Artful Wildness to Perplex	60
and Poetry,	My Structures Rise, My Gardens Grow	68
and Pope	Multiplied Scenes	78
58	Public and Private Virtues	88
	Professors of Gardening	100
THREE	The Varied God and Man's Continual Changes	105
The Ingenious	The Finished Garden	113
and Descriptive	Thy Villas Shine	121
Thomson	The Mind's Creative Eye	130
105	The More Enduring Song	141
FOUR	Wild and British	145
The Landscape	Furnishing the Mind's Apartments	149
of the Bard	The Gentler Genius of the Plain	157
145	Descriptive and Allegoric	164
	The Idiom of the Soil	171
	Night Thoughts	178
	Can Stow Such Raptures Raise?	185
FIVE	Landscape Business	199
The Landscape	Place-Making	218
of Sensibility	Prospects for Poetry	224
196
	Postscript	246
	Notes	251
	Index	266