

Content

Acknowledgment | 7

Introduction | 9

1 Generations on the Move | 19

1.1 Generation and Socialization | 26

1.2 Family and Intertext | 30

1.3 Various Sounds – Who is writing anyway? | 38

1.4 Chapter Conclusion | 42

2 Contemporary Jewish American Literature | 47

2.1 A Short History of Jewish-American Literature | 47

2.2 Overview of Jewish-American Literature in the 20th Century | 51

3 The Past of Shtetl and Family | 61

3.1 Jonathan Safran Foer – Everything is Illuminated | 65

3.2 Dara Horn – The World to Come | 75

3.3 Chapter Conclusion | 84

4 New Beginnings | 91

4.1 Shalom Auslander – Foreskin’s Lament | 95

4.2 Deborah Feldman - Unorthodox | 107

4.3 Allegra Goodman – The Family Markowitz | 120

4.4 Lisa Schiffman – Generation J | 125

4.5 Gideon Lewis-Kraus – A Sense of Direction | 133

4.6 Chapter Conclusion | 144

5 The New ‘Russian-Jewish-American’ Literature | 147

5.1 David Bezmozgis – Natasha and Other Stories | 154

5.2 Gary Shteyngart – The Russian Debutante’s Handbook | 159

5.3 Ellen Litman – The Last Chicken in America | 163

5.4 Anya Ulinich - Petropolis | 171

5.5 Chapter Conclusion | 181

Conclusion | 187

Bibliography | 191