

Table of contents

CHAPTER 1

- Bridging the gap between language acquisition and sociolinguistics:
Introduction to an interdisciplinary topic 1
Gunther De Vogelaer, Jean-Pierre Chevrot, Matthias Katerbow and Aurélie Nardy

CHAPTER 2

- The effects of exposure on awareness and discrimination of regional accents by five- and six year old children 43
Erica Beck

CHAPTER 3

- How do social networks influence children's stylistic practices?
Social mixing, macro/micro analysis and methodological questions 65
Laurence Buson

CHAPTER 4

- Child acquisition of sociolinguistic variation: Adults, children and (regional) standard Dutch two-verb clusters in one community 91
Leonie Cornips

CHAPTER 5

- Acquiring attitudes towards varieties of Dutch: A quantitative perspective 117
Gunther De Vogelaer and Jolien Toye

CHAPTER 6

- What is the target variety? The diverse effects of standard–dialect variation in second language acquisition 155
Andrea Ender

CHAPTER 7
The relationship between segregation and participation in ethnolectal variants: A longitudinal study	185
Charlie Farrington, Jennifer Renn and Mary Kohn
CHAPTER 8
Socializing language choices: When variation in the language environment supports acquisition	213
Anna Ghimenton
CHAPTER 9
Language acquisition in bilectal environments: Competing motivations, metalinguistic awareness, and the Socio-Syntax of Development Hypothesis	235
Evelina Leivada and Kleanthes K. Grohmann
CHAPTER 10
Acquisition of phonological variables of a Flemish dialect by children raised in Standard Dutch: Some considerations on the learning mechanisms	267
Kathy Rys, Emmanuel Keuleers, Walter Daelemans and Steven Gillis
CHAPTER 11
Developmental sociolinguistics and the acquisition of T-glottalling by immigrant teenagers in London	305
Erik Schleeef
Author index	343
Subject index	345